Khidir Completes Summer Research at Stanford University School of Medicine

Senior biology and anthropology major SHazar Khidir completed biology research at the Stanford University School of Medicine in Stanford, Calif., through the Amgen Scholars Program this summer.

The program provides undergraduate research opportunities to selected students at some of the top-ranked universities in the nation.

Khidir focused her research on genomics, specifically determining the mutations that are responsible for rare Medalian diseases. The research lasted eight weeks spanning from mid-June to mid-August.

After working in a research lab at Truman, Khidir decided to apply to the program.

"I'm really interested in integrating biomedical research into my future career. This program seemed like a really great fit for my interests," Khidir said.

The experiences Khidir had completing the program helped shape her future career aspirations.

"I learned that there are many career options in science," Khidir said. "From working for a biotechnology company like Amgen, to serving as a professor and head of laboratory, there are many, many options. I also gained a little bit of programming experience through my research project and gained some experience communicating science through a poster and oral presentation at the end of the program."

For students interested in completing summer research, Khidir recommends applying to multiple programs.

"Research is going to be a component of my post-college education, so having the skills I gained from this program will prove invaluable in my future endeavors."

For more information on the Amgen Scholars Program, visit www.amgenscholars.edu.

United Way Campaign is Under Way

Truman's 2011 United Way Campaign began Sept. 15 with a goal of $56,000.

All faculty and staff members should have received information about the campaign through campus mail. Individuals who did not receive campaign information, or have questions, may contact co-chairs, Tony Vazzana at tvazzana@truman.edu or Sally Detweiler at sallydet@truman.edu.

Donations support the United Way of Adair County, with all funds staying in the area. The local United Way has among the lowest overhead in the nation, allowing a greater percentage of contributions to go straight to local programs helping people pursue the goals of education, income and health.

Recent statistics show the United Way touches one out of three individuals in the area.

Truman Ranked No. 1 Public University in Midwest Region by U.S. News & World Report

For the 15th year in a row, Truman has been recognized as the No. 1 Public Regional University in the Midwest by U.S. News & World Report's 2012 edition of "Best Colleges." They also ranked Truman No. 8 overall in the "Best Regional Universities" category among both private and public institutions that provide a full range of undergraduate and master's programs.

Truman received a No. 3 ranking in the Midwest Region for "Strong Commitment to Teaching" which is based on surveys that identify schools where the faculty have an unusually strong commitment to undergraduate teaching.

The Undergraduate Research Program was also highlighted in the section titled "A Strong Focus on Student Success" which lists schools that are recognized for outstanding programs aimed at enriching the experience.

Truman was included as the No. 5 school in the Midwest Region on the list of "The 2012 Up-and-Comers" for making "the most promising and innovative changes in academics, faculty, students, campus or facilities." Truman is the only Missouri school listed.

The University is listed at No. 7 in the Midwest Region on the list of "Great Schools, Great Prices." This best value ranking takes into account a school's academic quality based on its U.S. News ranking and the 2010-2011 net cost of attendance for a student who receives the average level of need-based financial aid.

U.S. News & World Report bases its regional rankings on peer assessment, graduation and retention rates, faculty resources, student selectivity, financial resources and alumni giving. Complete listings are available at www.usnews.com/colleges. Truman was recently ranked by the Washington Monthly as the No. 3 school overall in the Master's Universities category and is the only Missouri university listed in the top 50 of the category. Truman topped the list of the 14 public universities recognized by the magazine.

Truman Nursing Students Visit Philippines

Eight nursing students from Truman traveled to the Philippines May 20-June 12 to gain clinical experience with patients from a transcultural perspective.

Through classes about cultural immersion and communicable diseases last spring, students prepared for their trip. The experience was divided into two parts. The first was a week-long stay in Manila, where students participated in maternal and nursery care at the non-profit government facility, José Reyes Memorial Medical Center. Here students were exposed to caring for mothers and infants who generally could not afford health care. They developed competencies in the assessment of birthing mothers and newborns and in cross-cultural communication. Four students completed 24-hour shifts in the delivery room. Students also had the opportunity to observe and assist with patient care in units of their choice, including the operating room, PICU, burn unit, ER and pediatric ward.

From Manila, they traveled south to the central province of Iloilo City where the students enrolled in the 12th Transcultural Nursing Program at West Visayas State University.

Clinical experiences in Iloilo included Asilo de Molo (the sole nursing home in Iloilo), home visits to Barangay Napnud, social hygiene clinic and a leprosarium, as well as hospital rotations in the medical, pediatric and surgical wards of WVVSU medical center. Communication and cultural accommodation were facilitated for the students during clinical experiences by nursing students, buddies, from West Visayas State University.

The senior nursing students who participated were Kayla Aydelott, Emily Berenz, Sarah Brown, Allison Harper, Lauren Lampe, Andrea Russell, Molly Werschling and Amy Wiley.

"These nursing students will present a program, "Transcultural Nursing in the Philippines" at 7 p.m., Oct. 4 in the Student Building Alumni Room. The public is welcome to attend and refreshments will be served.

Oxandale Wins Internship Photo Contest

Students interested were asked to submit a photo and a written statement of their internship experience.

Oxandale was voted the winner by Career Center staff and the deans of different schools. She spent eight weeks in Kenya, Africa, where she worked as a student nurse and teacher. She spent her mornings helping with tuberculosis, HIV/AIDS, prenatal, maternal and wound care in a local clinic. In the afternoons, she worked as a fifth grade science and math teacher at a school of 243 students. She lived with a local Kenyan family and commuted to work everyday.

Courtney found her internship through an online organization, "A Broader View."

To learn about the other contest entries, sign up to receive the Career Finder newsletter at career.truman.edu.

McNair Program Offers Nnadozie Scholarship

The Dr. Emmanuel Nnadozie McNair Endowed Scholarship is being awarded for the first time this year.

The scholarship was established in honor of Dr. Emmanuel Nnadozie, the first director of the McNair Program at Truman. The fund has received many gifts from staff and faculty. It is an endowment and is open to additional gifts. The goal of the scholarship is to assist individuals who are first generation college students and also come from low-income family background.

To qualify for the scholarship, students must be participants in the McNair program. Students who will be applying to the program this fall are also eligible for the scholarship, pending acceptance.

Applications are available online from Oct. 1-Nov. 1 at secure.truman.edu/isupport-s/scholarships.asp.

The McNair program's mission is to increase Ph.D. degrees achieved by underrepresented segments of society. Since receiving its first grant in 1992, the program has produced: 28 alumni with Ph.D.s., 39 currently enrolled in a Ph.D. program, 145 alumni with master's degrees and 31 currently enrolled in a master's program.

CONDUCT BOARD NOW ACCEPTING APPLICATIONS FOR STUDENT MEMBERS

The Office of Citizenship and Community Standards (OCCS) is seeking motivated students to serve as student affiliates on the University Conduct Board. The University Conduct Board hears cases of alleged misconduct to determine whether a student or student organization's behavior violates the Student Conduct Code, and if a violation is found, the imposition of sanctions. The board is comprised of faculty, staff and student members. Student members would be expected to serve on the board for various hearings each semester as well as participating in various social justice and civic projects on campus. This is a great opportunity for students to serve the University and improve a resume. The application to serve as a student member may be found at conduct.truman.edu. Applications are due Sept. 30, by 5 p.m. in the Student Affairs Office located in the Student Union Building 1110.
