Fine Arts Has New Division Head

John Lee of Arlington, Texas, is the new head of the Division of Fine Arts and professor of music. Prior to his appointment at Northeast, Lee was the Theory/Composition Division head of the department of music and associate professor of music at the University of Texas-Arlington. Lee replaced retired Fine Arts Division Head Dale Jorgenson, Aug. 1.

Lee earned a bachelor's degree in instrumental music in 1966 from Florida State University, a master of music degree in history and literature in 1968 from FSU, and his doctorate from FSU in 1972. He was a student of pianist Walter Hautzig at the Hartt College of Music at the University of Hartford and studied with William Heiles and Ben Johnston at the University of Illinois-Urbana. He also performed post-doctoral work with Lee Luvisi at the Aspen (Colo.)

School of Music.

From 1970-74, Lee taught at Sweet Briar College as an instructor of music and assistant professor of music. He was then assistant professor of music at the University of Kentucky from 1974-76, before being appointed to the faculty at the University of Texas. In addition to his teaching position at UT, Lee was the assistant dean of the College of Liberal Arts from 1979-83.

Lee is a composer, pianist and consultant, as well as the author of numerous publications, papers and book reviews. He is a member of the American Musicological Society, College Music Society, Music Theory Society of New York State, Pi Kappa Lambda Music Honor Society and Texas Society for Music Theory.

KBIA Broadcasts in Kirksville Area

The sounds of jazz, classical and blues music can be heard around the Kirksville area for listeners who tune to FM 89.9. National public radio station KBIA, known as K210AU in Kirksville, is being re-broadcast from Columbia, Mo., to the surrounding area.

In an agreement with the Columbia station, Northeast set up a translator on Cablecom's tower to receive the broadcast. The broadcast covers the Kirksville area and includes Novinger, Greentop, La Plata and Gibbs, Mo.

The broadcast, a public service provided by the University, began

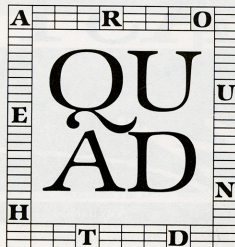

July 17. The University purchased the translator and is in charge of its maintenance. According to Cliff Brown, Audio Visual, KBIA is glad to allow the broadcast in Kirksville to expand its coverage. The home station in Columbia announces the broadcast at Kirksville daily; Brown said 30-second spots will soon appear on the home station crediting Northeast for establishing the station and requesting financial support.

Forty percent of KBIA's programming is news and information. Classical, blues and jazz music

Mother of the Year Meets Reagan

Susan Jackson, assistant professor of nursing, receives congratulations and a handshake from President Reagan during a ceremony in the Oval Office, July 30, 1987. Jackson, 1986 Multiple Sclerosis Mother of the Year, was chosen for her outstanding courage and accomplishments despite the limitations imposed by the chronic, incurable disease. Due to scheduling complications, a meeting with the president was delayed until this year; the meeting included both the 1986 and 1987 mother and father of the year. Jackson's two children nominated her for the award.

The project is expected to be completed within the next four years. Irvinbilt Construction Co., of Chillicothe, Mo., was awarded the contract for the first phase.

Commencement on the Quad

More than 400 undergraduate and graduate degrees were conferred during Summer Commencement, Aug. 7, on the Quadrangle. This was the first time commencement exercises have been held on the Quad.

On-Campus Job

This year the Scholarship Work Option provides students who have lost their scholarships the opportunity to renew them by working for the University. Approved in the spring, the new scholarship clause allows students whose grade point averages dipped below the renewal standards but who still have a minimum 3.25 GPA, to retain University scholarships. In exchange for being reinstated for this financial aid, students must volunteer their services to the University in some capacity for five hours a week. Listed below are student employment opportunities across campus. Those listed at the end of the list are institutional and work-study employment, where students receive a paycheck monthly for services rendered. Students participating in the work option program will not receive money directly but will have it applied to their financial account.

- Persons needed to clean the Kennels, the football locker rooms; act as managers; hand out and take in gear; wash gear; perform secretarial duties; set up the field for home games and paint the end zones. Students who are interested in football but are not players are preferred. Contact the Athletics Office, Pershing Building 213, at 785-4235.
- Students can work off their scholarships in Academic Planning by doing research and data entries of undecided students. Science majors are preferred to work as peer advisers within the Division of Science. For more information about both jobs, contact Academic Planning, A/H 102, at 785-4136.
- Scott Olsen, assistant to the dean of instruction for value added, needs someone to conduct library research, telephone interviews and correspondence for his value-added research. For more information, contact Olsen at 785-4396.
- Workers are needed in the Teaching Skills Center. Contact Loren Grissom, Violette Hall 247, at 785-4397.
- Clerical work can be used to fulfill the work option for students. For five to 10 hours weekly, students may work for Russell Baughman, associate professor of chemistry, doing clerical duties and grading papers, if the student worker has received at least a B in Chemistry I. Contact Baughman at 785-4627.
- Computer programming skills are required for a student to write CAI programs for biology. Contact Jim Shaddy in the Division of Science at 785-4618.
- A Communication or English major is needed to write articles for the Northeast Today. Newswriting and copy editing experience is necessary. Starting in the spring, Tel-Alumni office work will also be offered. Contact the Public Relations Office, A/H 202, at 785-4124, for more information.
- Peer counselors, requested by Testing Services, will prepare and counsel a group of five to seven readmitted students. Testing Services also has clerical work open for the fall. Interested students should contact the office, A/H 103, at 785-4140.
- The Graduate Office has clerical work available for interested students. For more information, contact the Graduate Office, A/H 203, at 785-4109.
- A student is needed to assist with research projects. Library research and monitoring computer-generated quizzes make up a few of the duties for the job. For more information, contact Marcia Dixon, instructor of Language and Literature, at 785-4520.

- One or two German-versed students are needed to work with bibliographical material, library research, previewing video cassettes and clerical work. Students selected must have a knowledge of the German language and possess typing skills. Foreign language majors or those in advanced German study are preferred. Contact Connie Reid, assistant professor of foreign language, at 785-4509.
 - Students are needed to plan and conduct an arts need survey. Knowledge of statistics, arts and crafts and computer skills are necessary to perform this job. Another work option also pertains to the arts—producing an arts newsletter. This worker will also gain experience in grant writing and arts administration. Requirements include a journalism background, word processing skills and an interest in art forms. For more information concerning either job, contact Carolyn Frick in the Division of Math and Computer Science at 785-4283.
 - Blue Key is looking for an assistant to help plan and coordinate the Blue Key Scholar Quiz. Prospective workers should have typing and filing skills. Contact Student Activities, A/H 204, at 785-4222.
 - A student is wanted to maintain art classrooms, perform clerical work, library research and model for drawing classes. Contact Jenny Morlan, temporary assistant professor of art, at 785-4447.
- INSTITUTIONAL AND WORK-STUDY STUDENT EMPLOYMENT PROCEDURES AND POSITIONS
- Students may not begin institutional work without clearance by the Financial Aid Office. The following regulations must be met: full-time status (undergraduate-12 hours, graduate-nine hours), minimum 2.0 cumulative GPA, may not receive funds from the Federal Work-Study Program and may work a maximum of 20 hours per week.

- Communication Disorders will hire a student to work in the office's checkout center of reading materials. Students are responsible for minimal clerical work and receive institutional or work-study pay. Contact the Department of Communication Disorders, Violette Hall 161, at 785-4669.
- Professional Food-Service Management is now taking applications for part-time food-service workers. Apply at the PFM Office located in the Student Union Building.

- Dependable office assistant needed for work-study or institutional pay. Duties include typing, filing, photocopying and some word processing. Student should be able to organize work and communicate with faculty. Apply at the Division of Industrial Science in Barnett Hall.
- Safety and Security needs honor guards to work 20-30 hours per week. Prospective employees must be juniors or seniors with a minimum 2.8 GPA. Honor guards receive minimum wage. Inquire at the Safety and Security Building.
- Resident Safety Patrol positions are available. Students must live on campus, have a minimum 2.5 GPA and be able to work six to nine hours a week. Work hours are midnight-3 a.m., weekdays and 1-4 a.m., on weekends. Apply at the Residence Life Office, A/H 101. Deadline is Sept. 7.

- The Alumni Office needs a student secretary to type, file and make data entries. The worker must pay close attention to detail. Someone who has two or more years of school remaining and plans to reside in Kirksville during the summer would be preferred. The job consists of 15 to 25 hours a week. For more information, contact David Clithero, 785-4125.

Campus Sees Improvements

Numerous changes have taken place all over campus during the past three months. The obstacles these projects presented this summer, have become exciting campus improvements.

The Student Media Center on the bottom floor of the Student Union Building adjacent to the Games Room is receiving its finishing touches. The Center consists of three major areas for the Index office, the Echo office and the KNEU radio station, which has been off the air since the student media moved out of Laughlin Hall last year. Benefits of the new center: centralized, therefore more efficient, use of equipment and information, such as the wire service; and a darkroom with a revolving door. Typesetting and other miscellaneous equipment has been moved from Ophelia Parrish to the new center.

Ophelia Parrish has also undergone construction. Workers plastered, painted and ripped out walls in order to build several offices for graduate assistants as well as to remodel some of the classrooms.

Repairs also include some carpeting and the repainting of some window coverings.

Several areas of Missouri Hall received repairs this summer. Improvements included upgrading bathrooms, laying new carpeting, painting walls on each floor and doing regular yearly repairs to the rooms. Residence Life has installed a faculty office in the hall and, like every residence hall across campus, Missouri Hall received new lounge furniture.

Nason Hall has undergone similar miscellaneous repairs. Major construction in the hall includes the building and the remodeling of the bathrooms.

Behind both halls, on the east side of campus, the Parking Lots are being paved. The same has been done to the lot south of Stokes Stadium. Construction of walkways and landscaping of green areas will follow at both locations.

The Natatorium has been patched, coated with sealant and painted. Walls and ceilings have been coated and painted as well. The surfaces of the tartan floors in Pershing Arena have also been redone.

Library to Circulate New Cards

Along with the $15 million addition to Pickler Memorial Library and renovation to the present facility, changes are occurring within the library's circulation system as well. New library cards will be distributed to faculty, staff and students sometime this fall. The present system of using student ID cards will continue until the new system is set up.

The library's automated circulation system requires a bar-coded library card. Along with the bar code, the card will contain the holder's printed name and a space for their signature. There will be no picture on the card. A statement explaining the card holder's responsibilities as far as library materials are concerned is printed on the back. If a student loses his/her card, it should be reported to the library immediately, and a hold goes on record reporting the card invalid.

"Since the system is automated, each circulation is tied to the computer automated system. It will enable us to have much better administrative handle on our circulation," said George Hartje, head of the Division of Libraries and Museums.

According to Hartje, the new cards will allow the library to give better service to currently enrolled students.

"Since its [the automated card system] controlled by the list of currently enrolled students and University employees, it will let our students have better access to the collection because somebody who is not a currently enrolled student won't be able to use their out of date identification," Hartje said.

Another advantage of the bar-coded card concerns the problem of overdue books and making students aware of their fines.

With the present system, "we have no handle on what students' fines are running, so that they may have $50 in fines before we catch it. With this system, whatever level we set, whether it be $5 or $10, as soon as the level is reached, the system will tell us when that person checks out books," Hartje said.

At this time, no specific time or place concerning distribution of the new cards has been set, so keep your student ID handy when you go to the library. Student IDs can be made from 8 a.m.-5 p.m., Monday through Friday, at Safety and Security. Some proof of date of birth is required.

I-M Sports News

A 3K Welcome Back Fun Run will be held at 4 p.m., Wednesday, starting in front of A/H. Everyone running will receive a McDonald's Big Mac. A champions T-shirt will be awarded to winners in each division.

Officials are needed for intramural softball and volleyball. Previous officiating experience is required. Hiring will take place from 12:30-4:30 p.m., today through Friday, Pershing Building 309.

Men's and women's softball deadline is Thursday; play begins Aug. 31. Tennis deadline is Sept. 2; play begins Sept. 7. Golf deadline is Sept. 7; play begins Sept. 8. All NMSU students, faculty and staff are eligible to participate in all intramural activities.

An intramural player/manager meeting will be held at 4 p.m., Sept. 3, Pershing Building 325A. Rules, regulations and schedules of intramural activities for September will be discussed.

James Conway, secretary of the Board of Governors, swears in student representative Michelle Blotevogel.

Student Representative: Ranks Board Top Priority

In May, Michelle Blotevogel was appointed to the Board of Governors by Gov. John Ashcroft, becoming only the third student to fill the position. Blotevogel was appointed to finish Ric Brockmeier's term, which ends Jan. 1, 1988.

Blotevogel, a freshman at the time, was skeptical about her chances of being chosen for the job left vacant by her former Carrollton High School classmate. Brockmeier was unable to complete his two-year obligation as a result of his graduating in May. Blotevogel simply wanted to get her name in the hat.

"I didn't think I had enough experience or that I hadn't been involved enough in different activities," said Blotevogel, a media communication major.

Being involved should not have been one of her worries. During her freshman year alone, Blotevogel worked for the Index and the Echo student publication staffs, performed with the Showboat Gamblers Color Guard and was a committee member for Grable House in Ryle Hall. Blotevogel did not limit her involvement in student politics with residence hall government. The aspiring political campaign worker was also selected as a freshman representative to the Student Senate. Besides participating in campus organizations, as a member of the Natatorium staff, Blotevogel created and coordinated a water aerobics program for senior citizens and swimming instruction for children suffering from asthmatic conditions.

Although Blotevogel plans to continue being active, she ranks her role on the Board as her top priority. She senses a duty to the student body.

"The Board, of Governors . . . has a lot more importance (representing the University) where in the other organizations, I'm just representing Michelle Blotevogel, who I am and what I am," she said.

The student position on the Board was created by House Bill 988, which provides for a non-voting student member to attend all of the open Board meetings.

Since its creation, the student representative position has been perceived as a student voice by the Board of Governors.

Since there are no specific guidelines for the job, the student representative can stray from the initial purpose and fall into the trappings of becoming a figurehead. Blotevogel plans to avoid this by delving into the job and collecting student viewpoints. Blotevogel admits she cannot do it alone.

"If one person took the initiative to speak out, maybe it can make a change," she said. "Even if they may not be able to make a change, at least they can say their opinion was heard by someone, somewhere."

Student Dies in Drowning Accident

Jamie Crow, an NMSU student, and his brother died in a drowning accident Aug. 2, in the Thompson River, two and one-half miles southwest of Farmersville in Livingston County. Jamie, 22, would have been a junior this fall. He was a member of Alpha Kappa Lambda fraternity.

NMSU Students Named MIAA Top Scholars

Eight NMSU students were named to the Missouri Intercollegiate Athletic Association Top Scholar-Athletes of the Year. The NMSU students were among 30 men and 20 women athletes from the MIAA conference to appear on the association's honor list for the 1986-87 school year.

Sophomore Karen Bastert ranked first on the women's list. Bastert, a member of the track and field team, finished the year with a 4.0 cumulative grade point average. Bastert's teammate senior Cheryl Mitchell and junior Roxann Meyer of the Lady Bulldog volleyball squad also were recognized for academic achievement.

Sophomores Paul Castellani, Dave Robaska and Lance Siering and seniors Phil Reinkemeyer and Don Coons were included among the top 30 on the men's list.

Only players from conference-sanctioned teams were listed among the top scholar-athletes. Selections were made from sophomores, juniors and seniors who are varsity regulars or key reserves and
