Frick Selected as Presser Scholar

Avril Frick, a music major from Oakville, Mo., has been named a Presser Scholar for the 2005-2006 academic year.

The Presser Scholarship is given to an outstanding music major at the end of his or her junior year. The foundation's grant of $4,000 was awarded to Frick at the spring Fine Arts award ceremony in April.

Theodore Presser is remembered not only as the publisher of Etude, the music magazine, and the founder of the great music publishing firm bearing his name, but as a philanthropist who specialized in music education.

Frick is involved in Campus Crusade for Christ, in addition to a number of music department organizations and activities at Truman.

Foudree went to work for the company in 1972 and was named executive vice president of finance of Harmon in 1986, the position he held until he retired in July 1999. Prior to that, he was employed by Peat Marwick Mitchell and Company for six years as a Certified Public Accountant.

Truman Endowment Fund Established

An endowment fund designed to provide perpetual resources to support the programs and activities of the University has been established at the Truman State University Foundation.

The Truman State University Endowment Fund for Excellence will provide funds to meet the greatest and changing needs of delivering a high quality education to students. The fund has been fortified with two recent gifts of $25,000 each from George '36 and Nadine '33 Wilson of Arlington, Va.; and Dr. Jack '57 and Berneta '55 Rice of Lindale, Texas.

Earnings from the endowment will support a variety of value-added student learning experiences, and may include study abroad, technology and equipment upgrades, scholarships, faculty development, library enhancements and other programs deemed to benefit students and student learning. The fund will be administered by the Truman State University Foundation Board of Directors, with discretion from the University President.

"Growing the University endowment is an overarching goal of the Foundation," said Mark Gambaiana, vice president for University advancement. "And providing a multi-purpose resource to meet the greatest needs of the University, especially in an uncertain funding environment, is paramount."

While the majority of Foundation funds are restricted for designated purposes by donors, the Truman State University Endowment Fund for Excellence provides a significant giving opportunity for current major and planned gift donors to meet evolving needs of the University.

Marijke Breuning, associate professor of political science, and John Ishiyama, professor of political science and director of the Ronald E. McNair Program, have been notified that their chapter, "Foreign Aid, Democracy and Political Stability in Post Conflict Societies," has been accepted for publication in Managing and Resolving African Conflicts. Vol. 2: Conflict Resolution and Post-Conflict Reconstruction, to be published by OSSREA/James Currey. Chizoba Ifeorah, a junior biology major from Fresno, Calif., participated in Summer Medical Education Program (SMEP) at Fisk/Vanderbilt University from June 2-July 15 in Nashville, Tenn.

Truman Faculty to Perform Original Play at Minneapolis Festival

Daryl Fazio, assistant professor of art, wrote "Georgia Out of My Mind" specifically for the 10-day Minnesota Fringe Festival (<http://www.fringefestival.org>), running from Aug. 4-14 in Minneapolis. The hour-long play is a two-woman, 10-character slice of Southern life hinging on the search for a missing former debutante and will be performed five times during the festival.

Part comedy, part drama, part mystery, part character study, and part utter nonsense, "Georgia" is Fazio's second play. Her first play, "Greyhounds," was produced Off-Off-Broadway this July at New York's American Theater of Actors after receiving its world premiere in Kirksville in 2003.

The production features Fazio and Becky Becker, associate professor of theatre, in the play's 10 roles with Joan Mather, professor of theatre, as director. The company also involves Benjamin Knoll, a junior theatre major from St. Louis, and Katie Rose, a senior English and theatre double major from Cape Girardeau, Mo., as stage manager and scenog-rapher. Knoll and Rose received a grant to help them pay for travel costs, as well as to produce a documentary on the rehearsal process and ultimate Fringe experience.

Fringe Festivals, a concept which originated in Edinburgh, Scotland 50 years ago when uninvited performers entertained crowds on the outskirts of the Edinburgh International Festival, now take place all across the world. Minnesota's festival is the longest-running of the U.S. Fringes, this summer holding its twelfth. There are more than 150 shows in a dozen venues vying for audiences from the more than 40,000 people who turn up for the Festival annually.

The duo will be performing a public dress rehearsal before they leave for Minneapolis. This dress rehearsal will be at 8 p.m., Aug. 2, in the Ophelia Parrish Black Box Theatre. Admission is free, but donations are accepted.

"Georgia Out of My Mind" will show Aug. 4 at 10 p.m., Aug. 5 at 5:30 p.m., Aug. 6 at 4 p.m., Aug. 11 at 8:30 p.m., and Aug. 12 at 10 p.m. at the Interact Theater, 212 North Third Avenue, in Minneapolis.
