

Athletic Hall of Fame to Induct 13

Northeast will induct 13 people into the 10th class of its Athletic Hall of Fame on Oct. 23. A ceremony will be held in the SUB Georgian Room at 7 p.m.

Since the inception of the Hall of Fame, 122 people have been inducted. The Hall of Fame was started through the support and efforts of alumni to recognize outstanding contributors to the athletic program.

Reservations to attend the Hall of Fame are available until Oct. 12 in the Alumni Development Office, 106 McClain Hall, 785-4133.

The following is a list of this years inductees.

Stanley Barker : (deceased): A two-time all-conference football lineman in the mid-1920s.

Bruce Berenyi: Pitched for the NMSU baseball team before launching a professional career. He played for the Cincinnati Reds from 1981-84 and the New York Mets from 1985-86.

John Bringer: An all-conference football lineman in the late 1960s.

Darrell Fouch: Was a second-team all-conference football end in the early '50s.

Deborah (Carter)

Graves: The first NMSU female athlete to earn All-America honors and the second woman to be inducted into the University's Hall of Fame.

Jerome Krumeich: A sprinter and relay performer, collected All-America honors in the mid-1960s.

Dennis Littrell: Earned All-America track honors as a high jumper in the early 1970s and was a two-time conference indoor and outdoor champion.

Paul Ozug: A two-time all-conference and all-district basketball forward between 1967-69.

Russell Sloan: Amassed a 22-5-1 record (.804) as the football head coach between 1969-71, the second best winning percentage among NMSU coaches. He guided the Bulldogs to a conference title and two co-championships.

Mark Sobol: An honorable mention All-American football defensive lineman in the late '70s.

Windhorf "Doc" Sooter: Played basketball in the late 1930s and early 1940s.

Dr. Wayne Ventling: A three-time track All-American in the mile relay in the early 1970s, helping the Bulldogs win three indoor and three outdoor conference titles.

Johnnie Wesley : (deceased): Second-team recognition on two 1981-82 All-America basketball teams. □

Monday Nights Series Presents Gandhi's Grandson

The "Monday Nights in Ryle" series will present Arun Gandhi speaking on "Non-violence or Non-existence: Options for the 21st Century" on Oct. 18 at 8 p.m. in Ryle Main Lounge.

Gandhi, the grandson of the late Mohandas "Mahatma" Gandhi, is an accomplished writer and speaker on non-violence. He has written many opinion pieces for major newspapers such as The Boston Globe, The New York Times and The Washington Post, contributed to "Heaven is Under our Feet," a fundraising book for Don Henley's Walden Woods Project, and authored A Patch of White, Kasturba - The Wife of Mahatma Gandhi and Maraji Papers, a controversial book that covers the rise and fall of the Janata Party in India.

Born in South Africa in 1934, Gandhi spent most of his childhood under the rule of apartheid. At the age of 12, he spent a summer vacation with his late grandfather. This experience proved very important to Gandhi, giving him the energy and vision to work toward his goals of world peace.

Gandhi helped create the "Center for Social Unity" to help "untouchables" break out of the cycle of poverty in which they live. The success has been great, reaching over 300 villages and more than 500,000 people.

In Oct. 1991, Gandhi opened the "Gandhi Institute for the Study of Non-Violence" at Christian Brothers University in Memphis, Tenn. The center is devoted to the study of all forms of non-violent philosophy.

Today Gandhi speaks on peace and non-violent philosophies. In addition to his work, he is completing a comparative study on racism in America as it relates to India's caste system and apartheid in South Africa.

Sponsors for the program are Ryle Residential Colleges, University Speaker Series and United Nations Association. □

1993-94 Jepson Fellows

Following is the third in a series of 10 features on the 1993-94 Jepson fellows. Each faculty member featured has been awarded a Robert S. and Alice A. Jepson Fellowship for Active Learning Initiatives to pursue active learning teaching methods.

Paula Cochran, associate professor of communication disorders, developed instructional materials for speech and hearing science, a required course for senior communication disorders majors. During the summer, she developed a new Macintosh-based lab assignment. The project is designed to increase students' opportunities to explore and experience a series of concepts related to acoustic filters which have been covered in the past through more passive approaches. What students complete is not a computerized tutorial, but rather a guided experiment in which students record and analyze their own voices using computer tools. Cochran will use three multimedia activities which she developed using a commercially prepared videodisc to introduce and review important concepts.

Students will complete these activities individually and use what they have learned in larger group discussions.

Brian McGuire, associate professor of chemistry, is working with a group of students to serve as consultants in determining the usefulness of graphing calculators in General Chemistry, a core curriculum course for non-science majors. About 20 percent of students own a personal graphing calculator and they are eager to learn how to use them. These tools are useful in demonstrating important concepts through graphics. McGuire will develop 25 lessons, which will be performed, tested and evaluated by the student group. A publishing company donated $500 toward the purchase of the calculators, and it is hoped that the results will be published as a supplementary text for General

Fitness Program Offered On Campus

An adult-centered fitness program will again be offered at Northeast. The program, in its second year, is administered by Paul Visich, professor of health and exercise science, with the help of student assistants. The program is offered on a semester basis at 6:30-7:20 a.m., 11:30 a.m.-12:20 p.m., and 5:30-6:30 p.m. on Monday, Wednesday, and Friday. There is a $25 fee per semester.

The program evaluates an individual's current fitness status through questionnaires and tests, then tailors a specific program to the needs of the individual. Activities include aerobic dance, aerobic fitness machines and nautilus weight training programs.

The key to the program, according to Visich, is providing an individualized workout with a low-pressure environment to exercise.

Faculty and staff interested in the fitness program should call Visich at 785-4309. □

Advancement at Northeast

Students, faculty, staff, parents and alumni often ask questions about "something called the Development Fund." Ironically, most of those same people know it has something to do with fund raising at Northeast—but they're not exactly sure what. This article will help answer the three most commonly asked questions regarding the Development Fund, which will help you understand the Development Fund and its purpose.

What is the Development Fund?

The Development Fund, as most commonly referred to, is actually titled the NMSU Development Fund Corporation. The Development Fund Corporation is the name under which Northeast Missouri State University encourages, administers and awards private gifts; parallel to a more widely known organization named the United Way.

Equivalent to the work and support the United Way provides both locally and nationally, the Development Fund Corporation provides financial assistance for students, faculty, staff, and alumni at Northeast.

The NMSU Development Fund Corporation receives gifts in three different areas. They include: 1) Annual Fund Gifts; 2) Corporate Gifts; 3) Major and Planned Gifts. These gifts are accumulated in a variety of ways including personal visits from volunteers and University personnel, personal proposals, grants, Tel-Alumni, and direct mail.

When contributing in any of these three areas, a donor may "designate" his/her gift toward an endowed account, an account which provides monetary assistance based on the amount of interest earned annually; or request that his/her gift remain "unrestricted," supporting the area of greatest need during the fiscal year the gift is received.

Currently, the endowment has a market value of $5 million, which earns about $225,000 in interest, and unrestricted gifts currently average about $215,000 annually.

Why is the Development Fund needed?

In 1980-81, state appropriation accounted for 78 percent of the University's budget. Today, the state provides only 58 percent of the funding actually needed to operate Northeast. This reduction in state support has created an overwhelming need to find alternative sources of funding for programs and services that have become essential to the continued growth and prosperity of Northeast. Private contributions have maintained and, in some cases, enhanced ongoing initiatives at Northeast. In fact, without this assistance, many of these initiatives would have been scaled down or even eliminated.

In addition, as implementation of Northeast's planning document, A Higher Order of Excellence, begins to take place across campus, private funding will be one of the most important factors in realizing the outlined goals and objectives for each of the initiatives.

How does it affect me?

As a student, faculty or staff member, you receive an abundance of support from the NMSU Development Fund Corporation. For example, for the 1993-94 academic year the Development Fund will provide, through specifically designated gifts, more than $100,000 in student scholarships; $96,000 in divisional support; $80,000 for faculty development, and $29,000 for athletics. In addition, through unrestricted gifts, the Development Fund will provide more than $32,000 for internships; $20,000 for faculty development; $29,000 for athletics; $20,000 for cultural development; and $10,000 in support of the Lyceum Series. A total of nearly $432,000 will be awarded to deserving individuals, programs and services on campus.

As you can see, the emphasis on the growth of private contributions to the NMSU Development Fund Corporation will continue to be instrumental in the University's ability to develop and prosper during the years ahead. Students, faculty, staff, parents, alumni, friends and corporations will all be asked to help for the betterment of Northeast Missouri State University. □

Development Fund Corporation

Annual Fund Gifts—Private contributions by individuals in support of scholarships, services and programs for students, faculty, staff and alumni.

Major and Planned Gifts—Private gifts by individuals defined as large in nature or those given through bequests, insurance policies or life-income gifts.

Corporate Gifts—Private contributions by corporations and businesses in support of campus initiatives.

Contributions in support of Bulldog athletics are also included.

Planned and Major Gifts

Since the inception of Northeast's development program in 1981, planned and major gifts have been an important component of our fund-raising efforts. Historically, such gifts total approximately 50 percent of annual contributions, as well as more than half of the University's $5 million endowment.

What are planned and major gifts? Planned gifts are defined as bequests; life income gift arrangements such as trusts and gift annuities; gifts of life insurance; and life estate gifts of a personal residence or farm property. Major gifts represent significant outright contributions of cash, stock, bonds, real estate, and personal property such as livestock, equipment or works of art.

With the growing need for private financial support, Northeast has chosen to enhance the planned and major gifts effort by hiring David Clithero as the first program director. Clithero will coordinate the University's efforts to identify and work with alumni and friends who may wish to provide gifts for scholarships, fellowships, research, faculty chairs and other program funding.

In conjunction with the emphasis on planned and major gifts, the Board of Governors recently approved the Named Giving Opportunities Policy to honor those who have made significant contributions to Northeast.

Individuals and organizations can receive named recognition under the following guidelines:

14th Annual Tel-Alumni Begins Nov. 1

On Nov. 1, 1993, 30 students will begin staffing the phones as the 14th Annual Tel-Alumni campaign kicks off. Each year, between approximately November and February, 750 students call alumni throughout the country seeking additional private support through the NMSU Development Fund for endowed scholarships, divisional programs, cultural events, as well as unrestricted needs. Tel-Alumni is an important element of the University's Annual Fund efforts, accounting for more than $78,000 in gifts received last year.

The fall campaign runs from Nov. 1-18, and the spring campaign will take place Jan. 31-Feb. 17. The following groups will call this fall: Business and Accountancy (Nov. 1-4, 7); Fine Arts, Education and Science (Nov. 8-11, 14); campus student organizations (Nov. 15-18).

In recent years, Tel-Alumni has improved in several areas. More alumni are being contacted due to new calling strategies. Alumni fulfillment of pledges has increased due to a new pledge format which provides the alumnus a hand-written note within two days of his pledge. Matching gifts from employers are targeted with specific brochures. Calling takes place in the fall and spring to allow alumni an opportunity to make a year-end gift for tax purposes.

To all our Tel-Alumni volunteers, past and present, we send a heartfelt thank you. You are making a difference. □
