Missouri London Program

Missouri London Program (MLP), a study abroad program, is accepting applications for the fall 1991 and spring 1992 semesters. Students can earn between 12 and 15 academic credits which may be used to satisfy general education and other degree requirements.

NMSU participants will join other students from member institutions in Missouri: Central Missouri State, Southeast Missouri State, Southwest Missouri State, the University of Missouri-Columbia, the University of Missouri-Rolla, the University of Missouri-St. Louis, and Northwest Missouri State.

Courses for 1991-92 will be offered in economics, English, history, management, political science and philosophy. The courses are taught in London by faculty from member universities.

The MLP enhances cross-cultural experiences by providing tours to acquaint students with Salisbury, Stonehenge and Stratford upon Avon as well as other destinations in Britain and continental Europe. Participating students will have membership in the Students' Union of Imperial College, which allows them to use the cafeteria, lounges, game rooms, sport hall facilities, swimming pool and tennis courts. Membership in the Union will also give Missouri's students opportunities to interact with British and other international students.

The cost of the program is $3,295 per student for 16 weeks. This does not include the student's regular tuition, registration fees at NMSU or round-trip airfare to London. Total estimated cost is $6,500, and financial aid is available to eligible students.

For more information contact Seymour Patterson, associate professor of economics, McClain Hall 111B, 785-4360.

N O T A B L E S

Jim Barnes, professor of comparative literature, has a biographical-essay on the subject of David Ray, a Missouri poet, and his poetry in the current issue of "Poetry Pilot," the official newsletter of the Academy of American Poets, headquartered in New York City.

Keith Doubt, assistant professor of sociology, recently had an article titled "The Pedagogy of Tact in Theoretical Discourse" published in Phenomenology + Pedagogy, Volume 8, 1990. Using the work of German philosopher Hans-Georg Gadamer and American sociologist Erving Goffman, the paper examines how the idea of tact governs the humanistically disciplined character of social science.

Marlow Ediger, professor of education, spoke on "Improving the Curriculum" at the California Association for Supervision and Curriculum Development Convention in Irvine, Calif., Feb. 1. He also had the following accepted for publication: "A Forward Looking Reading Program" in The Indiana Reading

Quarterly; "Negative Numbers in Arithmetic" in The Instructor; "Transparent, Translucent and Opaque Materials" in The Elementary Teachers Ideas and Materials Workshop; "Teaching the Concepts of Evaporation and Condensation" in Science Activities; and "Mentor Teachers and the Curriculum" in The Progress of Education.

Mark Faucette, assistant professor of mathematics, had a paper, "Higher Dimensional Harmonic Volume can be Computed as an Iterated Integral," accepted for publication in the Canadian Mathematical Bulletin.

Miles Lovelace, professor of education, will present a workshop "Frame Flipping or How to Make Decisions After Considering How Others See the Problem" in Orlando, Fla., at the Eighth Annual Conference of Academic Chairpersons hosted by the Center for National Issues in Higher Education at Kansas State University. He will also attend the annual conference of American Association of School Administrators in New Orleans the first week in March.
