Last Lyceum Event Brings Glover and Justice to Campus

Truman's Kohlenberg Lyceum Series will end its season April 2 with a one-of-a-kind performance by actors Danny Glover and Felix Justice.

In "An Evening with Langston & Martin," the two adopt the personas of civil rights leader Martin Luther King Jr. and Harlem Renaissance poet Langston Hughes.

Playing King, Justice will bring to life two of the activist's most memorable and inspiring speeches.

Glover will read from the works of Hughes, demonstrating the poet's uniquely African American words and rhythms. Glover weaves throughout his readings personal reflections on the impact of Hughes' writings.

A question and answer session will follow the two performances.

Glover is an Emmy-winning film and television star and human rights activist. Inducted into the Black Filmmakers Hall of Fame in 1991,

Danny Glover & Felix Justice

he has appeared in such films as "The Color Purple," "Places in the Heart" and the "Lethal Weapon" series.

Justice has been acting and directing for more than 30 years. His one-man Martin Luther King Jr. show "Prophecy in America" premiered at the Lorraine Hansberry Theatre in San Francisco in 1981, and has toured widely in the United States and Africa.

Tickets for "An Evening with Langston and Justice" are available to students, faculty and staff with a University ID. Students may pick up tickets at the Student Activities Board Office. Faculty and staff tickets are available in the Center for Student Involvement.

Barnes and Noble is a platinum level sponsor of the Series and a special guest at this performance.

For more information, contact the Public Relations Office at 785.4016 or visit <http://lyceum.truman.edu>.

Business Executive to Present Lectures

The Division of Business and Accountancy will present Susan Plassmeyer as the Executive-in-Residence April 4.

Plassmeyer will lecture on "Fairness and Honor: Principles of Ethical Leadership in Business and Life" at 3:30 p.m., in Violette Hall 1000. "Practice Makes Perfect: Become the Business Leader You Would Most Wish to Follow" is the topic for her presentation at 7 p.m., in the Student Union Building Activities Room. Both talks are open to all students.

Plassmeyer is the executive vice president of construction, engineering and facilities maintenance for Chicago Transit Authority. She is responsible for all construction and facilities activities, including management of a five-year construction budget of $1.5 billion, facilities maintenance, engineering and real estate work. Plassmeyer oversees a staff of 1,322.

This semester's Executive-in-Residence received her bachelor's degree from Truman in 1986 and a master's degree from the University of Chicago.

Plassmeyer was the first student representative appointed to the Board of Governors. She currently serves on both the Truman Foundation Board and the Division of Business and Accountancy Advisory Board.

This program is sponsored by the I.M.C.E.R.A. Group which endows the Raymond F. Bentele/Mallinckrodt Executive-in-Residence program.

Index Wins Best in Show at National College Media Convention

The Index, Truman's weekly student-produced newspaper, won the Apple award as the best non-daily newspaper at the College Media Advisers National College Media Convention March 19, in New York City.

The Apple is one of the two top awards presented each year to college student media. This is the second time in three years the Index has captured the honor. Truman's newspaper won against weekly student publications from across the country.

A panel of New York media professionals selected the winners based on a variety of criteria including news judgment, journalistic quality, quality of writing, variety and diversity of news, photography and layout and design.

Five students represented Truman at the conference, which included more than 100 professional development sessions by media professionals across the journalism spectrum.

Christina Collison, senior communication major from Newton, Kan., is the editor in chief of the Index this year. Steven Chappell, assistant professor of communication, is the Index adviser.

Chappell is chairman of the CMA online journalism committee, and he also serves as the technology director of the annual conference.

Professor Recognized for Leadership

University professors from across the state recognized the initiative of David Gruber, professor of philosophy, earlier this month. The Missouri Conference of the Association of University Professors (AAUP) established the David F. Gruber Leadership Development Award at its statewide meeting, March 5, in Columbia, Mo.

Gruber has served as an officer of the AAUP since 1993 and a member of the National Council of AAUP since 1996.

The award in his name will provide monetary support to AAUP members who attend training seminars and regional or national meetings of AAUP.

Truman Music Majors Earn High Honors

Four music students recently received $1,000 awards from the Macro Analysis Creative Research Organization (MACRO).

The following students were awarded the Bruce Benward MACRO Theory/Composition Student Honorarium: Michael Van Beber, graduate student with a concentration in composition; Carol Perry, junior music major from Cumberland, Wis.; and Brent Moran, sophomore music major from Fulton, Mo. Moran and Perry share an emphasis in composition.

Brian Sevits, sophomore music major from New Whitehall, Ind., received the Robert Fountain MACRO Memorial Honorarium. Sevits has a vocal emphasis.

The Benward Honorarium is a national award given to outstanding students in music theory and music composition. It is endowed by Bruce Benward, one of the nation's leading music theory educators and scholars.

The Robert Fountain MACRO Memorial Honorarium is a national award given to outstanding students in music performance who have demonstrated a sincere interest and aptitude for music theory. It is endowed in memory of Robert Fountain, an internationally-renowned university choral director and educator.

The Macro Analysis Creative Research Organization is a national organization dedicated to fostering an understanding of the interconnectedness of various components of the music field: theory, composition, conducting, performance and education.

Notables

John Ishiyama, professor of political science, and Marijke Breuning, associate professor of political science, co-wrote "A Survey of International Studies Programs in Liberal Arts Colleges and Universities in the Midwest: Characteristics and Correlates" for publication in the 2004 issue of the journal of International Studies Perspectives.

Scholarship Opportunities Available

The Financial Aid Office has announced the availability of several scholarships.

The Beta Zeta chapter of Delta Kappa Gamma International is offering a recruitment grant of $120 to female students who meet the requirements.

Applicants must be high school graduates from the Missouri counties of Atchinson, Holt or Nodaway. They must have a declared major of education, a minimum GPA of 2.5 and apply in the spring before they student teach.

The application deadline for this grant is April 1.

Students interested in pursuing graduate accounting study can receive financial aid through the AICPA John L. Carey Scholarships Program. Scholarships are available to all liberal arts degree holders of any regionally accredited U.S. institution who want to pursue a CPA certificate.

Scholarships are awarded based on acaademic achievement, leadership and career interests. The awards are contingent upon acceptance in a graduate accounting program. Up to seven students annually will be awarded a $5,000 scholarship.

Visit <http://www.aicpa.org/members/div/career/edu/jlcs.htm> for more information or to apply for the scholarship. Forms are due April 11.

The Missouri Waste Control Coalition (MWCC) is offering its environmental scholarship to students who are interested in the environmental studies field. MWCC will be awarding one $500 scholarship to be used toward tuition, books and other educational expenses.

Applicants must have a minimum GPA of 2.7 and attend or plan on attending a university or college full-time.

The deadline for this application is April 15. Students can stop by the Financial Aid Office, McClain Hall 103 for more information about any of these opportunities.
