Moore Is Grand Marshal; Alumnus of the Year

Northeast alumnus Larry Moore ('68) has been named Grand Marshal of the Homecoming parade and the University's first Alumnus of the Year.

To be considered for the Alumnus of the Year award, the alumnus must have contributed to the Development Fund, given his/her time to the University, provided the University with support through service, personal resources, or influence, as well as having demonstrated commendable personal achievement or community service.

Moore has been employed by KMBC-TV, channel 9, in Kansas City, Mo., since 1968. He is currently evening news anchorman. Prior to 1972, Moore held the positions of weekend anchorman, news producer, general assignment reporter and sportscaster. He received his B.S.E. from Northeast in 1968.

He is also active in the Kansas City community. Moore is involved with a range of organizations including the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation, the Lost Children Network and the Dream Factory.

He made headlines last spring with his on-the-air announcement that he had cancer, a malignant lymphoma on the left side of his nose. Moore made his treatment public to stress the importance of early detection. Moore has since finished chemotherapy and radiation treatments for the cancer.

Moore is originally from Edina, Mo. He and his wife, Ruth, have five children.

SAB Books Smithereens

The Student Activities Board will host the band The Smithereens in concert at 8 p.m. Nov. 9 in Pershing Arena. Tickets are available in the SAB Office, SUB. Cost is $16, general admission; $13, students, faculty and staff; and $11, SAB sticker holders. Mastercard and Visa will be accepted.

NMSU Provides Computer Service to Kirksville High School

An extension of the LUIS Library Computer System and MUSIC Academic Computing System has been installed for student use at the Kirksville High School.

NMSU loaned the necessary equipment to KHS, and the high school paid for the telecommunications line to connect the system, according to Jon Broyles of Computer Services. Broyles, who set up the hardware, said that four terminals as well as one screen printer were installed.

Resume Referrals

Resume Referrals is a service to NMSU seniors and alumni. Through this service, organizations that express an interest in NMSU candidates but are unable to interview on campus are sent resumes and cover letters. If you wish to be considered for employment with a participant in the Resume Referral program, submit your resume along with a cover letter addressed to the contact person by the due date. Any further contact will be at the discretion of the employer.

Myer Joins Campus Planning Staff

New this semester to the Campus Planner's Office is Mark Myer, assistant to the campus planner.

Myer's duties include helping Doug Winicker, campus planner, coordinate various projects and overseeing existing projects such as the SUB Snack Bar renovations. Eventually, Myer will oversee projects from beginning to end.

Prior to coming to Northeast, Myer worked in the Facilities Planning Office of the University of Tennessee Medical Center at Knoxville. Coming from a large school to Northeast was a change for Myer, but he says that he likes the smaller campus. The half-mile hike across the University of Tennessee campus is not something he misses.

Although work as an architect is appealing to Myer, he also enjoys campus planning. He says that working with campus planning is "more interesting because I will be able to see the progression of changes instead of working from one building to the next."

Originally from Oak Ridge, Tenn., he is a 1990 graduate of the University of Tennessee-Knoxville with a bachelor's degree in architecture.

Pepsi Presents $10,000 Prize

Representatives from Northeast who were responsible for the winning entry in the Pepsi-Cola home video contest accept a check for $10,000 from Pepsi Franchise Manager Tom Restad of Minneapolis. Northeast's entry was one of 4,000 submitted. Ten winners were chosen.

Pictured are Cheryl Mason, graduate student in the MAE program and former Student Activities Board member; John Ryan, senior accounting major and president of SAB; Johnny Langley, assistant professor of communication; Chris Geisert, senior communication major; and Restad. The video was sponsored by SAB and produced by Langley and Geisert. The prize money will be divided among the three parties.

Sidewalk Repairs Under Way

Repairs have begun on the sidewalks around the quad, particularly on the sidewalks around Baldwin Hall and Ophelia Parrish. New sidewalks will be laid between the two buildings, replacing the existing worn and damaged walks. In addition to repairs to existing sidewalks, the path across the quad to Ophelia Parrish will be paved.

Work will also be done to the entrances of those buildings. The walks around the entrances will be repaired and there will no longer be steps going into the buildings. Instead, the sidewalks will slope directly to the entrance, thus providing direct access into Ophelia Parrish and additional access to Baldwin Hall for the mobility impaired.

"There will be some detours involved with the repairs to the sidewalks and the entrances of the buildings, but there will always be access to the buildings," said Mark Myer, assistant to the campus planner.

What is Upward Bound?

Upward Bound is a federally funded, year-round support program designed to assist qualifying high school students in building the skills and motivation necessary for success in college. UB provides those students academic skill development, college/career assistance and social/cultural exposure.

In the last seven years, more than 90 percent of the UB students have attended college; and in the last 10 years, more than 70 percent have persisted/are persisting in college to complete their course of study. According to national studies, without the UB support less than 10 percent of these students would go on to college.

What students does Northeast's Upward Bound program serve?

Northeast's territory includes the following counties: Adair, Schuyler, Scotland, Knox, Shelby, Macon, Randolph, Sullivan and Putnam. The program serves approximately 80 students from 15 area schools. Recently, Northeast's UB program received additional funding from the federal Department of Education to serve three new area schools: Randolph County R-IV, Adair County R-I and Shelby County C-1.

UB assists students who have the academic potential to go to college, but need support in order to do so. UB students typically come from families in which neither parent has a bachelor's degree or from families which meet a low-income guideline set forth by the federal government.

How many Upward Bound programs are there nationwide?

Established in UB's inaugural year, 1966, Northeast's program is one of 500 in the country. To date, more than 1,500 northeast Missouri students have been served by the UB program at Northeast.

Of the more than 10 1/2 million students nationwide who qualify for the UB program, 1/2 million students are currently participating.

What does Northeast's Upward Bound program consist of?

Programming begins at the high school sophomore level and continues through the summer after high school graduation, the "bridge summer." During the summers, a six-week session is held on campus and provides simulated college experiences. Students attend UB classes and planned social and cultural activities. During the "bridge summer," students take six hours of actual college classes.

Throughout the school year, UB staff visit the students at their high schools every two weeks to provide tutoring, group activities and career/collge guidance. The program focuses on the needs of each individual student, so the experience may vary with the student.

What opportunities does Upward Bound provide for Northeast students?

UB meets the needs of the northeast Missouri area through assisting its students, and UB offers several ways for Northeast students to get involved with the program as well. Through paid positions, internships, and volunteerism, the Upward Bound program provides Northeast students opportunity to develop awareness of the educational needs of area high school students and to exercise skills they are developing as future educators, counselors, and service professionals.

During the academic year, one or two students assist the UB Office with their work at area schools. In the summer, 10 to 12 upperclassmen are chosen to live with the students in the residence halls and serve as tutors, counselors, and motivators, just to name a few roles.

Applications for Upward Bound positions are accepted in December and January. Positions are finalized in February. For more information, contact the UB Office.

Student Present Proposition B Forum

A Proposition B forum, sponsored by the College Republicans, was held at 7 p.m., Oct. 15, in Ophelia Parrish 214. A panel, consisting of College Republicans J.R. Ping and Sal Montalbano and Student Senator Teri Brickey, discussed how Proposition B will affect education in Missouri.

According to Brickey, Proposition B, if passed, will raise 385 million dollars. Of that, 190 million would go to both higher and secondary education and the remaining five million would help fund job training and development in community colleges and technical schools. Brickey, coordinator of the Student Senate Proposition B campaign, said that the money would be raised from several different areas: a 1.5 percent corporate tax on corporations earning more than $100,000, a 3/8-cent state sales tax increase, a five-cent per pack increase in the cigarette tax and a 10 percent tax on other tobacco products, and a cap on income tax deductions. Proposition B offers some tax relief with the increase of the dependent deduction from $400 to $800.

The money given to higher education would be used to improve the state-wide coordination of programs offered at state universities, to repair and maintain buildings, to fund financial aid programs for students, to purchase up-to-date technical equipment and to strengthen programs.

Montalbano discussed the effects Proposition B would have on secondary education. First, it would give parents more of a say in which school district their child attended. This would give the parents and child an opportunity to choose between programs offered in different districts. It would provide 15.3 million in extra financial aid for schools which reduced the class sizes in kindergarten and first grade. School districts would be required to be more accountable to the public. They would have to report their dropout rate, enrollment in each school and student participation in extracurricular activities.

Proposition B would make it easier for people with a bachelor's degree but no teaching classes to become certified to teach seventh through 12th grades by taking a 10-day training program. This would create a larger pool of teachers and make it easier for the schools to get teachers. Finally, Proposition B would lengthen the Missouri school year by six days, from 174 to 180. "Missouri has traditionally had a low number of school days; lengthening the school year would make Missouri 19th nationally," Montalbano said.

Ping focused on the education reforms proposed in Proposition B. He said that the Board for Coordinating Education would concentrate on increased efficiency among the state universities to try to avoid duplication of programs. For instance, Northeast is already Missouri's statewide liberal arts and sciences university. If Proposition B passes, other schools would also become more specialized.

In the primary and secondary schools, more money would be used to hire teachers. More money would also go to fund technical and vocational training in community colleges as Missouri's spending is lacking in that area. This expenditure will help the state in the long run because if Missouri has more people are trained, more businesses will be attracted here. Other reforms include increased aid to the disabled and disadvantaged and encouraging more parents to teach their younger children before they go to kindergarten.

Ping also addressed the anti-Proposition B groups which are forming. In particular, he addressed the people who feel that the tax money should also go to social and welfare programs. In response, Ping stated that the bill is an education bill and does not provide for anything but education.

High school librarian Jo Ellen Hays said the computers, located in the high school library, provide a convenient access to resources at Pickler Memorial Library. She said that she refers students to the LUIS system when they need information beyond the capabilities of the KHS library.

Although the computers were installed during the spring semester, this is the first semester in which the computers have been used for student classwork.

Laura Brown, a former employee of NMSU Computer Services, is now teaching data processing classes at the Kirksville Area Vocational-Technical Center. Her classes consist of high school juniors and seniors who are now learning how to use the MUSIC system.

Brown said that wherever the students go after high school, the experience of using a mainframe system will be beneficial to them. "The students are enjoying it, but it's also an adjustment for them," Brown said.

Hays said the students seem to be enjoying their new access to Pickler. "A program like this instills self-confidence that they [the students] know how to use a computer system," Hays said.

Notables

A three-page commentary on the poetry of Jim Barnes, professor of comparative literature, appears in a new critical work titled American Indian Literatures: An Introduction, by A. LaVonne Brown of the University of Illinois-Chicago.

Marlow Ediger, professor of education, has had the following articles published: "Reading on the Higher Education Level," in Resources in Education and "A Foreward Looking Reading Program," in Query, a professional journal for reading teachers in Canada.

Mark Hanley, assistant professor of history, had his article "The New Infidelity: Protestants and the Idea of Progress, 1830-1860" in the August issue of Religion and American Culture: A Journal of Interpretation.

Karen Kay, assistant professor of Japanese, presented a paper titled "Kakari musubi-type Syntactic Correlation in Eighth Century Japanese: An Instrument for Textual Comparison" at the Midwest conference on Asian affairs held Sept. 13-15 in Iowa City, Iowa.

Miles Lovelace, professor of education and head of the Division of Education, served as an assessor for the Missouri Building Principals' Assessment Center, Oct. 6-10, in Jefferson City. This was Lovelace's fourth time as an assessor for the Missouri NASSP Assessment Centers. Since 1987, a requirement for being a principal in Missouri has been satisfactory performance at one of these centers.

Nancy Lovelace, assistant professor of English, and Mile Lovelace, professor of education and head of the Division of Education, recently attended the Centennial Celebration of the founding of the Harvard University Graduate School of Education in Cambridge, Mass. Nancy received the Ed.M. and the A.L.M.S. and Miles received the Ed.M. and the Ed.D. at Harvard.

Craig Payne, Language and Literature graduate teaching assistant, has had an article titled "Political Liberals, Political Conservatives: Whose Side is Christ on?" accepted for the Fall 1991 issue of Touchstone: A Journal of Ecumenical Orthodoxy. His poem "Anima Mundi" has been accepted for an upcoming issue of First Things: A Monthly Journal of Religion and Public Life.

Stacy Roberts, a 1991 graduate of Northeast, has been named the Missouri state finalist for the first NCAA Woman of the Year Award. The award, sponsored by Hanes Her Way, recognizes a senior woman who has demonstrated outstanding athletic ability, academic excellence and a dedication to community service. Roberts was one of 10 recipients of an NCAA postgraduate scholarship and is currently pursuing a degree in health and physical education with an emphasis in sports administration at the University of Missouri-Columbia.

The NMSU Bulls Rugby Club defeated the Kansas Jayhawks 10-4 on Oct. 12. They thank all their fans and patrons who showed their support at the game.

David Williams, assistant professor of communication, has been named associate editor of Speaker and Gavel, journal of Delta Sigma Rho-Tau Kappa Alpha forensics society for the next three years.

Bulgarians Visit NMSU

The Division of Science hosted representatives from Bulgaria on campus Oct. 10. Their visit was sponsored by the United States Department of Agriculture. The Bulgarians spoke on agriculture and changing politics in their country.

While on campus, the visitors were given an overview of the United States sheep industry and the beef cattle industry. They also met with Tom Marshall, assistant professor of animal science, to discuss genetics.

Notes

The Division of Social Science announces a call for papers for the Second Annual Undergraduate Philosophy/Religion Conference to be held on Nov. 15-16. Deadline for submission is Oct. 25. Papers are to be turned in to the Social Science Division Office, McClain Hall 214 or David Murphy's office, McClain Hall 230. Papers should be 9-12 pages long (about 20 minutes reading time). Authors of accepted papers will be notified by Nov. 6.

The Tylenol Scholarship Fund will award ten $10,000 and 500 $1,000 scholarships on the basis of leadership activities, academic record and a clear statement of educational and career goals. Application deadline is Dec. 1. Application information is available in the Financial Aid Office, McClain Hall 100.

Renewable scholarships for full-time students interested in pursuing a career in graphic communications are available from the Graphic Arts Technical Foundation. Applications are available in the Financial Aid Office, McClain Hall 100. Application deadline is March 15.

The Pre-Law Advisory Committee recently published the first newsletter of the 1991-92 year. The newsletter aims to provide information relevant to the study of law and to applying to law schools. Any student or academic adviser wishing to receive a copy may leave their name and address at the Social Science Division Office, McClain Hall 214.

The faculty associates and staff of Missouri North Residential College announce a call for papers for this year's Environmental Forum. They are seeking papers from NMSU faculty, staff and students that concentrate on an environmental issue, topic or theme. While presentations will be scholarly, they should not be overly technical. They will accept five papers to be read, one each, in the months of November, December, January, February and March of the 1991-92 academic year. Dates, times and locations will be announced at a future date. Presentations should be 30-40 minutes in length, with anticipated 20-30 minute question-and-answer period to follow. Proposals should be 150-250 words. All proposals will be read by the Environmental Forum Committee. An honorarium of $100 will be awarded for those proposals accepted for the forum. Proposals should be submitted to: Dr. Dana Delaware, college professor, Missouri North College, 106 Missouri

Hall, NMSU. Deadline is Oct. 31.

An informal, informational question and answer forum for English majors by English majors will be held from 7:30-8:30 p.m., Nov. 4, in the SUB Conference Room. Members of Sigma Tau Delta honorary English society will be present to answer any questions underclassmen English majors may have about classes.

"A Psychology Degree: What can you do with it after graduation?", an open forum/question-and-answer session presented by professionals in a variety of fields, will be held from 7-9 p.m., Oct. 30, in Violette Hall 266. The presentation is sponsored by Psi Chi national psychology honor society. Open to all psychology majors.

Auditions will be held for the Northeast Concert Band during the week of Oct. 28. Rehearsals will begin Nov. 4. For more information, contact the band office at 785-4436.

Accounting majors may apply for scholarship awards of $250 to $5,000 from Independent Accountants International. Recipients must be enrolled full-time. Applications are available in the Financial Aid Office, McClain Hall 100. Application deadline is Feb. 28, 1992.

A $500 scholarship/summer internship program is available from the Missouri Department of Conservation for students majoring in some field of natural resource management, particularly for minority students. Information and applications are available in the Financial Aid Office, McClain Hall 100. Application deadline is March 1, 1992.

Proposition B Volunteer Recruitment and Mobilization Team reminds all faculty/staff volunteers to please return volunteer kit information to McClain Hall 106.

Applications for the Board of Governors Student Representative will be available beginning Oct. 28, in the Student Senate Office, SUB. Applications will be due on Nov. 6.

Certified notaries are being sought to assist the Student Voter Registration Committee with absentee voting. Notaries interested in helping should contact Teri Brickley at 785-5705.

COMM 170 peer tutoring is being offered by Lambda Pi Eta speech communication society from 6-10 p.m., every Tuesday until the end of the semester, in Ophelia Parrish 116. Any COMM 170 student wanting to work on their speeches with upper-level communication students are encouraged to attend.

The University of Missouri—Columbia is sponsoring Alcohol Awareness Week. At 7 p.m., Oct. 24, a mock date rape trial will be held at the Law School. On Oct. 25, there will be a self-esteem workshop. Students interested in attending one or both of the events can contact the Women's Resource Center in the Ryle Hall foyer for further details.

The Unique Ensemble gospel choir needs a full-time faculty/staff member to accompany it on out-of-town trips to Columbia on Oct. 27 and Rolla on Nov. 15-17. Interested persons can contact LaKeshia at 785-4708.

DePaul University is sponsoring the Illinois Collegiate Job Fair at the College of Du Page, 22nd and Lambert roads, Glen Ellyn, Ill., on Oct. 25. On-site registration is $20 at the door with resume. For more information or to see the list of employers attending, see the Career Placement Center's "Hotfile."

The 2nd Annual Education Conference: Strategies for Success will be held on April 10 and 11. The date of this conference coincides with one of the GRE test dates. Conference organizers want students to be aware of the conflict so they could plan an alternate date for taking the GRE if necessary.

The NMSU Symphony Orchestra, under the direction of William FitzSimmons, will present its Fall concert, at 8 p.m., Oct. 30, in Baldwin Auditorium. The program consists of the Overture to the Barber of Seville by Rossini, Passacaglia and Fugue in C minor by Bach as transcribed by Leopold Stokowski and the Howard Hanson Romantic Symphony. The concert is free and open to the public.

The Bottom Line

An excellent way to reduce, by about half, of the paper during photocopying is to publicize the fact that copying can be done on both sides of a sheet just by pushing a button on the far left of the top panel.
