Be the Next Student Representative to the Board of Governors

The student representative to the Truman Board of Governors plays a vital role in the protection and advancement of student interests by regularly consulting with the Board of Governors, the University's highest policy-making body, as well as many other members of the University community.

In order to apply, you must be a full-time student and a resident of the state of Missouri. Further, you must be willing and able to serve until Jan. 1, 2011 and possibly Jan. 1, 2012.

To find out more contact the current student representative, Cody Sumter, at cody@truman.edu. To apply go to <http://governors.truman.edu>.

Submit a completed application to truman.student.rep@gmail.com no later than 8 a.m. May 1.

For questions please e-mail truman.student.rep@gmail.com.

Early-Vreeland Lecture Looks at Middle East

The 2009 Barbara Early-Vreeland Lecture will be given by Kenneth Stein, the William E. Schatten professor of contemporary Middle Eastern history, political science and Israeli studies at Emory University, and director of the Emory Institute for the study of modern Israel. The lecture will begin at 7:30 p.m. April 29 in the Student Union Building Activities Room.

Stein's presentation, "U.S. Policy in the Middle East: Learning from Successes and Failures in Forging an Arab-Israeli Peace," is co-sponsored by the Office of the Provost and Hillel, the Foundation for Jewish Campus Life.

Stein is the author of numerous books and publications. Among them are Hebrew and English editions of "Heroic Diplomacy: Sadat, Kissinger, Carter, Begin and the Quest for Arab-Israeli Peace," "Making Peace Among Arabs and Israelis: Lessons From Fifty Years of Negotiating Experience" and "The Land Question in Palestine, 1917-1939." Additionally, he has written extensively on the modern Arab world, as well as, Palestinian and Israeli history. He served as the first director of the Carter Center from 1983-1986 and as the Middle East Fellow of the Carter Center from 1983-2006.

The lecture will examine the broad history of a vital and problematic aspect of United States foreign policy. Despite many administrations and changes in world events, since the end of World War II, U.S. policy toward the Middle East has shown remarkable stability. U.S. objectives have consistently assured the stability of moderate Arab states, ensured the flow of access to Middle Eastern oil and continued the development of a strategic relationship with Israel. In keeping with these objectives, since the June 1967 Middle East War, Washington has played a significant role in Arab-Israeli peace-seeking, peace-making and peace-keeping.

As the Obama administration considers its role in Arab-Israeli diplomacy, Stein addresses what lessons can be learned from Washington's engagement from the presidency of Richard Nixon to that of George W. Bush.

In addition to the lecture, Stein will lead a breakfast discussion at 8 a.m. April 30 in the Student Union Building Georgian Room B speaking on "The Benefits and Liabilities of using Oral Interviews in Writing Contemporary History." To join in the breakfast, RSVP to Daniel Mandell at dmandell@truman.edu.

The Early-Vreeland Lecture was established by Joseph Vreeland through the University Foundation in memory of his wife, who passed away at age 40. A 1973 Truman graduate, Barbara Early-Vreeland graduated magna cum laude with bachelor's degrees in history and French.

Inaugural Tru-Leaders Class to be Honored at Banquet

Members of the inaugural class of Tru-Leaders Future Executive Academy will be honored at the School of Business Annual Recognition Banquet April 25.

Supported by the Boeing Company, Tru-Leaders Future Executive Academy is a selective program for students with demonstrated high potential in leadership skills and is designed to provide advanced professional development and personal mentoring for participants.

As part of the Academy, students are expected to be actively involved in a business-related student organization. Members have unique opportunities to visit corporations, receive co-curricular advisement, participate in seminars designed especially for development of leadership and professional attributes, and attend special sessions with business leaders and visiting executives.

The inaugural class was accepted into the Academy in Fall 2008. Members include: Phillip Abernathy of St. Louis, Mo.; Noah Chung of St. Peters, Mo.; Michelle Hines of La Plata, Mo.; Anthony Ringwald of Fenton, Mo.; and Erin Williamson of Kansas City, Mo.

Truman's School of Business is one of only 167 in the world accredited in both business and accounting by the Association to Advance Collegiate Schools of Business (AACSB International), the foremost world-wide accrediting agency for schools and programs of business.

CIRCLE K TO HOST RUMMAGE SALE FOR HUMANE SOCIETY

Truman's chapter of Circle K International will host a rummage sale April 25, to raise money for Kirksville's Humane Society.

The club asks Truman students, faculty and staff, as well as Kirksville residents, to donate items for the sale. Most items will be accepted, including books, clothing and furniture. Item pick-up and storage services will be available for those who need it.

Proceeds from all sales will go directly to the Kirksville Humane Society.

The sale will take place from 6 a.m.-2 p.m. at Truman's commuter parking lot, located on Franklin Street, across from Red Barn Park next to Barnett Hall.

For more information, contact Nicole Flood by e-mail at nmf965@truman.edu or by phone at 660.341.9343.

SIFE Wins Regional Competition, Receives Gift from State Farm for Community Projects

Truman Students in Free Enterprise (SIFE) captured the SIFE Regional Competition, March 27 in Rogers, Ark. With the win, the team advances to compete at the 2009 SIFE USA National Exposition in Philadelphia, May 10-12.

In addition to continued success in competitions, Truman SIFE has launched projects to help educate the campus and the community about finance. State Farm Insurance recently donated $5,000 to Truman SIFE to help fund the organizations projects.

The first project targets the international community at Truman. Every year about 100 international students and 20 exchange students arrive at the University. Many have no prior knowledge of the American banking system. Truman SIFE members will create an informational brochure on bank accounts, credit cards, and buying and selling textbooks. SIFE plans to distribute the brochures to incoming international and exchange students during the 2009 Fall International Orientation.

Truman SIFE is also taking their financial skills outside of the Truman community, to Milan, Mo., a small town with a large number of Spanish-speaking residents. Due to the language barrier, some residents have trouble managing their personal finances. SIFE has teamed up with Hablantes Unidos, a Spanish student association at Truman, to provide education in basic personal finance to members of the Spanish-speaking community. Some topics covered by the course include how to open a bank account, writing and recording checks, balancing a checkbook, debit and credit cards, and instruction of basic financial terminology.

Truman Program and Senior Receive Awards

Truman received honors at the recent BACCHUS Area 5 Conference, Meeting of the Minds in Kansas City, Mo.

Sleep Awareness Week won the Outstanding Program Award. It was sponsored by University Counseling Services, the Student Public Health Association and the Health 440 class. Events included hammocks on the Quad, sheep on the Quad and a pajama day. All events were focused on providing information and tips about healthy sleep.

Courtney Perrachione a senior health science major from Kirksville, Mo., received the Outstanding Senior Award at the conference. Perrachione was nominated by fellow BACCHUS and GAMMA members for her strong leadership skills and commitment to the organization. Perrachione has been a member of BACCHUS and GAMMA for three years and has served as president, vice president, alcohol awareness week chair and speaker committee co-chair. BACCHUS and GAMMA is a peer education network focused on alcohol abuse prevention and other related student health and safety issues.

The Meeting of the Minds: Networking for Success in Prevention is a regional prevention and health education conference for college and university peer educators, their advisors, administrators, and campus and community law enforcement.

NOTABLES

Jon Grant, a senior psychology major from Columbia Mo., and applied psychophysiology research team lab manager, received a student scholarship and presented the research poster, "Sitting Position Influences Heart Rate Variability," at the Biofeedback Foundation of Europe (BFE) meeting in Eindhoven, Netherlands, Feb. 24-28.

Fred Shaffer, professor of psychology, also delivered an invited address, "Breathing Effort Disrupts Diaphragmatic Breathing," and taught a workshop with Donald Moss on "Respiratory Training and Heart Rate Variability Biofeedback for Medical and Functional Disorders" at the BFE meeting.

Truman Psychology majors Chris Wally, a sophomore from St. Charles, Mo.; Igor Korenfeld, a sophomore from St. Louis, Mo.; Aaron Truitt, a senior from St. Louis, Mo.; and Michael Urlakis, a senior from Naperville, Ill.; won the Best Student Paper award at the 40th Annual Association for Applied Psychophysiology and Biofeedback (AAPB) meeting in Albuquerque, N.M., April 1-4. Their winning research paper was entitled "Inhalation-to-Exhalation Ratio Affects Heart Rate Variability Training Success." Thought Technology Ltd. of Montreal presented Wally, assistant lab manager for professor of psychology Fred Shaffer's applied psychophysiology research team, with a $3,000 BioGraph Infiniti data acquisition system. This was the second time in three years that Truman students won this prestigious graduate competition. Urlakis also discussed his Psychological Research capstone project, "The Physiological Effects of Kargyraa Throat-Singing: Paradoxical Arousal."

Rebecca Harrison, professor of classics, presented a paper on "Exercises to Build Predictive Reading Skills," at the 105th Annual Meeting of the Classical Association of the Middle West and South in Minneapolis, Minn., April 1-4. Sandy Rempe, instructor in justice systems and manager of the Department of Public Safety Juvenile Justice Program, is the winner of a national award that recognizes excellence in the field of juvenile justice. The Tony Gobar Award recognizes a state juvenile justice specialist who exemplifies service to others, dedication and commitment to improving the juvenile justice system, and compassion and concern for juveniles and their advocates. Rempe has worked as the Department of Public Safety Juvenile Justice Program Manager for 12 years. Under her leadership, the Juvenile Justice Program administers approved four federal grants that provide annual funding to 60 state and local agencies in Missouri to help support juvenile justice and delinquency prevention initiatives. In addition, Rempe serves on numerous advisory groups, committees and commissions. She will receive the award at the annual Coalition for Juvenile Justice National Conference in Washington, D.C. May 4.

Ryan Campbell, a junior French major from Manchester, Mo., was selected for the 2009 Walter Jensen Scholarship for study abroad. In addition to the $1,500 scholarship, Campbell will receive a one-year complimentary membership in the Advanced Academy for Future Teachers.

Spring 2009 Staged-Reading Series Concludes

Staged-readings, an advanced theatre course, will be performing "Rebel Voices," its final act of the semester, at 4 p.m. April 25 in Violette Hall 1000.

"Rebel Voices" is an adaptation by Rob Urbinati of "Voices of the People of the United States," by Howard Zinn and Anthony Arnove. It is a documentary that looks at the U.S. through the "prism of history." A history of dissent in America emerges through the voices of the dissenters, such as Frederick Douglass, Susan B. Anthony, Sojourner Truth and Malcolm X.

The theatre class will also sponsor the inaugural Ten-Minute Playwriting Competition. Truman students, faculty and members of the Kirksville Community will perform in Baldwin Auditorium May 5-6. For more information contact Dana Smith at dasmith@truman.edu.
