

Northeast Today

February 2, 1976

A BICENTENNIAL CONCERT OF AMERICAN BAND MUSIC will be presented by the University's Symphonic Wind Ensemble at 8 p.m. tomorrow in Baldwin Auditorium. The music will be coordinated with a multi-visual presentation depicting scenes related to the bicentennial.

Dale Everett of the Fine Arts faculty will narrate a special section on a "Portrait of Abraham Lincoln" which will highlight some of Lincoln's most famous speeches. The male section of the NEMO Singers will join the Symphonic Ensemble for "Testament of Freedom," based on the words of Thomas Jefferson.

Everyone is welcome free of charge.

DICK GREGORY, recording artist, human rights activist and social satirist, will speak at 8 p.m. tonight in Baldwin Auditorium. His appearance is part of the University's Black Week '76 activities and is free of charge and open to the public.

Gregory first caught the public eye as a professional comedian then became active in the civil rights movement in the 1960's. He is author of several books including Nigger, The Shadow That Scares Me and Dick Gregory's Natural Diet for Folks Who Eat: Cookin' With Mother Nature.

Other Black Week activities include a rap session, bicentennial talent show, crafts fair, soul dinner, dance and an appearance by poet Robert Ervin.

THE END IS NEAR ... for the completion of the University natatorium. If all goes as planned, construction will be completed by the end of the month and it will be open for business around the first of March.

Fontaine Piper, soon-to-be director of aquatics, says that the schedule of classes, team practices, etc. is being worked out now and that "as much open time as possible" will be put in the schedule for swimming by the University community. More details will be available later in the month in Northeast Today.

"FREUD" is the title of a movie to be shown at 8 p.m. Wednesday in Baldwin Auditorium under the sponsorship of the Sociology Club. Admission will be 50¢.

A GIFT OF LIFE ... the Red Cross bloodmobile is scheduled for a campus visit tomorrow through Thursday in the Activities Room of the Student Union. Persons who have not made appointments are welcome to come at their convenience: tomorrow and Wednesday from 1-5:45 p.m. and Thursday from noon-4:45 p.m.

GETTYSBURG, VALLEY FORGE, THE WHITE HOUSE, THE CAPITOL ... are a few of the historic landmarks to be visited during a travel workshop to Washington, D.C. scheduled for May 13-23. Jim Przybylski of the Social Science faculty will be the instructor.

The course may be taken for two or three hours of graduate or undergraduate credit or may be audited. Costs will be $170 for transportation, room and entrance fees plus tuition for those enrolled for credit. A down-payment of $25 will be required by March 19, the last day of registration for the interim session. For more information contact Przybylski at ext. 2772.

A TELELECTURE by Paul Smucker, chairman of the J.M. Smucker Company of Orrville, Ohio, can be heard at 8 a.m. Thursday in 307 Laughlin Building.

AMERICAN PRINTS FROM WOOD, a collection of 115 prints drawn mainly from the collections of the Smithsonian Institute and the Library of Congress, will be on display in the University Gallery during this month.

The collection is a survey of the subject from the late 18th century to the present with emphasis on 20th century examples. A technical display of blocks, proofs and photographs documenting the production of a woodcut and a wood engraving is a feature of the exhibit.

Because of the size of the exhibition, the University Gallery will hang the first half from Feb. 2-13 and the second half from Feb. 16-27. The technical display will remain in place throughout the month.

Regular gallery hours are 1-5 p.m. weekdays and at other times by appointment with Trudy McRae, director. The gallery also will be open Feb. 17 in conjunction with the Lyceum program "Calvacade of American Theater." Admission is free to the gallery.

DR. WILLIAM BONDESON, director of the College of General Studies at the University of Missouri-Columbia, will make two presentations on campus Feb. 12. He will speak on "The Role of the Humanities in General Education" at 3 p.m. in the Alumni Room and on "The Future of the University" at 7:15 p.m. in 106 Laughlin Building. Everyone is invited free of charge.

THE NMSU SYMPHONIC WIND ENSEMBLE received a standing ovation after its recent concert before the Missouri Music Educator Association's state convention in Jefferson City, reports Tom Duden, director of bands. Duden reports that one of the highlights of the program was a performance by Jeff Piper who played the Tartini Trumpet Concerto on piccolo trumpet.

THE CITIZENS BAND RADIO IS A HOT ITEM that may go the route of the calculator-- from profits to a position of survival as prices become more and more competitive. Whether one CB manufacturer is financially afloat by the end of the month depends on the managerial skills of four University accounting students.

James Edwards of the Business faculty is serving as advisor for the student team as they participate in the 11th annual Intercollegiate Business Games sponsored by Emory University. The Northeast team, and teams from 31 other colleges and universities, are making decisions affecting the operation of computer-simulated firms via a communication network with Emory.

Each team will make a presentation based on its management decisions before a panel of judges March 4-6 in Atlanta. Last year's team placed in the top 12 of 25 participating schools.

FACULTY NOTES ... Andrew Grossbardt, Language and Literature, recently had three of his translations of poems by Jules Supervielle accepted for publication by The Shore Review, published in Milwaukee. The three poems, "Pines," "The Sea," and "If there were no trees" will appear in the June issue. On Feb. 26 he will read from his work at the Kansas City Poetry Series....

Jim Barnes, Language and Literature, has poems appearing in the recent issue of Nimrod, a literary magazine published by the University of Tulsa. The issue is devoted entirely to writers who were born in Oklahoma or who have made their lives in the state. He also has a translation of a German short story ("In the Lion's Den") appearing in the current Mundus Artium, a literary magazine of international reputation. He is scheduled to give a reading of his poetry in Louisville, Ky., on February 27 at the fourth annual Conference on Contemporary Literature. Also, the February issue of The Atlantic Monthly has a short review of Carriers of the Dream Wheel: Contemporary Native American Poetry of which Barnes is co-author....

Charles G. Fast, Health, Physical Education and Recreation, has an article "Happenings in Health Education" in the Spring issue of the Journal of the Missouri Association of Health, Physical Education and Recreation. His article "Sweet Smell of Victory or the Agony of Defeat" is in the February issue of School and Community....

Gene C. Wunder, Business, is a contributing author for the new introduction to the business text and student guide for Contemporary Business by Dr. Louis E. Boone of the University of Tulsa and Dr. David L. Kurtz of Eastern Michigan University. The text was published by the Dryden Press and was released in January.
