Seventh Annual University Conference Welcomes Author, Discusses Changes

The seventh annual University Conference will take place from 8 a.m.-5 p.m. Feb. 7.

Students, faculty and staff will be able to participate in a variety of presentations and discussions concerning the topic "Building Our Third Decade of Excellence in the Liberal Arts and Sciences: Becoming More Learning-Centered."

The Conference is an opportunity for the entire University community to review and collectively address key issues affecting the future of the University and its ability to provide students with the best possible opportunities to learn and develop their talents both inside and outside the classroom.

This year the event's objective is to encourage discussion and input from all areas of the University community related to becoming more focused on the learning process and both what hinders and aids this process.

Classes will not meet from 7:30 a.m.-5:30 p.m. Feb. 7, giving students and faculty the opportunity to attend the event.

Registration will begin at 8 a.m. outside the Ophelia Parrish Performance Hall, where light refreshments will be served. Garry Gordon, vice president for academic affairs, will give opening remarks and an introduction in the OP Performance Hall at 8:30 a.m.

Immediately following at 8:45 a.m., John Tagg, author of "The Learning Paradigm College," will give the plenary address, "Learning to Change, Changing to Learn: Creating a Learning-Centered University."

The first two of the day's four sets of concurrent sessions will discuss Tagg's and other's ideas with multiple presentations on various topics. The first session begins at 10 a.m., the second set is scheduled for 10:50 a.m.

Lunch will begin at 11:45 a.m. in the Student Union Building Lounge, during which Tagg will deliver the 2007 Baldwin Lecture, "In the Beginning..." In his lecture he will explore recent research capturing the nature of expertise, with the provocation that experts are good beginners.

A break is scheduled for 1:30 p.m., after which an overview of Truman's Strategic Plan is scheduled to take place at 1:45 p.m. in the OP Performance Hall. At this time, participants are also welcome to visit the Technology Fair in the Student Union Building Activities Room. See Page 2 for more information about what will be on display at the Fair, which will run from 1:45-5 p.m.

The final two sessions will follow. The third set of session, beginning at 2:45 p.m. will include a focus on the University's Strategic Plan. The fourth, beginning at 3:30 p.m., will concern the different majors and disciplines that Truman offers.

The Conference will conclude with a Conference Social held in conjunction with the Technology Fair at 4:30 p.m. in the SUB Activities Room. This time will allow participants to socialize and reflect on the day's activities.

Visit <http://vpaa.truman.edu/communications/universityconference/2007/> for a complete itinerary of the events for the day.

Contact Julie Lochbaum, director of the Center for Teaching and Learning, at ctd@truman.edu or 785-4391 for more information on the Baldwin Lecture. A limited number of copies of Tagg's book are also available in the Vice President for Academic Affairs office, McClain Hall 203.

Fifth Annual Technology Fair to Take Place During University Conference

Many projects will be on display and two Dell all-one-printers will be awarded at this year's Technology Fair.

The Teaching Learning Technology Roundtable (TLTR) is hosting the Fifth Annual Technology Fair from 1:45-5 p.m. Feb. 7, the afternoon of the University Conference, in the Student Union Building Activities Room.

The Technology Fair will showcase exciting ways that technology can facilitate the educational process as well as innovative ways that technology is already being used at Truman.

The topics that will be covered include, among others, creating an e-textbook, tailoring an online simulation game for use in courses, with audiovisual and textual resources to enhance the reading of a literary work, using an online "wiki" Web site to compile class resources for use by different instructors, developing an online mathematics curriculum for use in K-12 education, and the latest from Instructional Design Services led by Diane Richmond, the new instructional designer.

In addition, the winners of the TruTech Challenge, a competition of technology projects open to students, faculty, staff, classes and organizations, will be awarded Dell printers in a ceremony at 4:30 p.m.

The Technology Fair will conclude in conjunction with the University Conference's social hour, during which refreshments will be served.

Contact Chad Mohler at cmohler@truman.edu for more information about the fair or TLTR.

Students Take Research to State Capitol

Students Spread the Fundamentals of Free Enterprise

Students in Kirksville received an early lesson on spending habits.

On Jan. 23 and 25, Truman's Students in Free Enterprise team (SIFE) organized a project titled "SIFE Savings" at the Adair County Family YMCA.

This two-day event, designed for third- and fifth-grade children, included a discussion and a game focused on the difference between impulse and smart buying.

As part of the game, students were asked to make decisions about buying situations. They were also asked to keep track of their transactions in a savings register. At the end of the game the participants received prizes based on how much they had saved, thus demonstrating the consequences of poor spending choices.

SIFE is a global nonprofit organization represented by student teams on more than 1,600 university campuses in 40 countries. SIFE offers students the opportunity to develop leadership, teamwork and communication skills through learning, practicing and teaching the principles of free enterprise.

Each year SIFE competitions take place worldwide, paying tribute to the education outreach projects.

Contact Jeni Long, Truman's SIFE president, at jl707@truman.edu or 314.973.0977 or visit their Web site at <http://sife.truman.edu> for more information.

SAB Spring Films presents "Stranger Than Fiction" starring Will Ferrell and Emma Thompson at 6:30 p.m. and 9 p.m. Feb. 9 and at 3 p.m. Feb. 10 in Violette Hall 1000. Free with student ID.

NOTABLES

Marijke Breuning, associate professor of political science, has been awarded a Ping Fellowship to support her participation in the CIEE (Council on International Education Exchange) International Faculty Development Seminar in Ghana summer of 2007.

Matt Tornatore, associate professor of foreign language and linguistics, had his article concerning the disputed origin of several Italian Gallicisms published in the most recent issue of "Rivista italiana di linguistica e dialettologia" (Rome, Italy) pp 175-190.

Black History Month Events to Take Place

February is Black History Month and Truman State University will celebrate through competition, food, political discussion, film, music, dance and fashion.

The month kicks off with the Black History Knowledge Bowl at 7:30 p.m. Feb. 8 in Baldwin Hall 156. Team sign ups will take place Feb. 5-8.

The Soulful Sunday Dinner will take place at 5 p.m. Feb. 11 in the Ryle Hall Main Lounge. People can feed their mind, body, and spirit with a nourishing home cooked meal. The event is free, but there is a limited quantity of food.

The next event helps people to enrich their mind by listening to a presentation by KC Morrison at 6 p.m. Feb. 12 in Magruder Hall 1098. Morrison is a member of the doctoral faculty of political science at the University of Missouri-Columbia specializing in the areas of Third World politics, African politics and society, African-American politics and society, and comparative political leadership. He is scheduled to discuss "Race Cycles and the 2008 Elections" with a focus on two-party politics in the United States.

The third week of Black History Month will bring film, music, dance and fashion. The film "The Language We Cry In" will be shown at 6 p.m. Feb. 22 in Baldwin Hall 251. A woman traces her roots to a village in Africa in this film. Following the film, Sylvia Macauley, African historian, will lead a discussion concerning the issues illuminated by the film and its content.

The month wraps up with a cultural explosion with "Sights and Sounds of Africa." This event will celebrate African culture through food, dance, fashion and more at 4 p.m. Feb. 25 in the Student Union Building Lounge. This event is sponsored by the African Student Association, the Residential College Program and Multicultural Affairs.

All events are sponsored by the African Student Association, Association of Black Collegians, Multicultural Affairs Center, Phi Beta Sigma Fraternity, Inc. and the Residential College Program.

Scholarship Looks for Undergraduates Committed to the Environment

The Morris K. Udall foundation is expected to award 80 scholarships of up to $5,000 to sophomore or junior undergraduates who have demonstrated a commitment to the environment.

The campus deadline for this nationally competitive scholarship is Feb. 27. For more information visit the Udall Web site at <http://www.udall.gov/> and contact Maria Di Stefano, Truman's Udall Foundation representative, at mdistefa@truman.edu.

SCHOLARSHIP AVAILABLE

The Point Foundation has announced the availability of numerous scholarship opportunities for lesbian, gay, bisexual and transgender students. The Point Foundation hopes to provide a greater level of acceptance, respect and tolerance within future generations for all persons regardless of sexual orientation, gender expression or gender identity. Visit <http://www.thepointfoundation.com> for more information about the foundation's scholarship opportunities.

Scrapbooking	Open	Feb. 23		March 17

Entry forms may be picked up at the Student Recreation Center (IM bulletin board) and are available online. Online registration is now available. Entry forms must have name, banner ID number and signature of each participant. Entry forms are to be deposited in the metal box located at the Member Services Desk in the Student Recreation Center by 11 p.m. of the posted due date. Official rules for each sport go to <http://recreation.truman.edu>.

Career Expo

1-5 p.m.

Feb. 21

Student Union Building

On the Career Center's Web site, <http://career.truman.edu>, find the Career Expo link and click on it. There students will find a helpful list of companies who have signed up thus far as well as a student registration link where students can sign up ahead of time. It is recommended that they sign up before Expo as it will save them a lot of time waiting in line the actual day of Expo.

Feb. 14 is the last day to apply online for jobs with companies that will be conducting on-campus interviews Feb. 22. The Career Center will sponsor "Map Out Your Future" Feb. 20 which includes employer mock interviews all day. Students can sign up now in person for employer mock interviews but they will need to turn their resumé in at the same time they sign up. And as always, the career assistants are available, without appointment, to assist students with their resumé and cover letter questions.

Stop by the Career Center or call 785-4353 if for more information.

Student Ambassador Applications Available

The Office of Admissions is looking for applicants who are responsible, energetic and sincere in their desire to relate all aspects of University life to prospective students and their families.

Due 5 p.m.

Feb. 15

The Student Ambassadors are a group of approximately 150 students whose goal is to promote Truman State University to prospective students and their families. They are in charge of visiting with prospective students, giving tours of campus and assisting with visit events.

Applications are available in the Office of Admissions, McClain Hall 205. Interviews will be conducted Feb. 19-23.

Contact Jill Graves at jgraves@truman.edu for more information.

NOTES

The Truman campus was covered in red on Feb. 2 for National Wear Red Day. Karen Skoch, director of fitness/wellness programs, thanks those Truman students, faculty and staff that participated in helping to raise awareness and raise money in support of the American Heart Association's research and educational efforts for Adair County. Special thanks to the SERVE Center, Janice Young and HES Health 440 Students, the Student Health Center, and SRC volunteers for planning and implementing activities on campus. Special thanks to the female athletic teams for helping support Wear Red Day. Also, a special thank you to Tim Barcus for taking photographs of the events. It is never too late to get involved and learn more about preventing heart disease. February is the month to love your heart. Schedule your heart health check up today.

Applications are now being accepted for Le Coin français, Truman's French language residence community, and La Casa Hispanica, Truman's Spanish language residence community. These communities will be housed in Missouri Hall beginning in fall 2007. Applications are due Feb. 9. For more information or to receive an application, contact Tim Farley at tfarley@truman.edu for Le Coin français and Carol Marshall at carolmar@truman.edu for La Casa Hispanica.
