Speech and Hearing Clinic Drive Exceeds Expectations

Fifty may indeed be nifty, but to those associated with the Truman Speech and Hearing Clinic, $100,000 sounds better.

To celebrate the 50th anniversary of the Speech and Hearing Clinic, the University conducted a "Give $50 for the 50th" fundraising campaign with the goal of generating $50,000. After approximately a year of accepting donations, the campaign concluded in February with a grand total of $100,000 raised in cash, pledges and planned gift commitments.

Paula Cochran, chair of the Communication Disorders Department had been deliberately kept in the dark about the final total unveiled at the campaign wrap-up event.

"I was stunned at that final amount," she said. "We know we have the strong support of clients, alumni and the community, but this total so exceeded our expectations. It's very encouraging to all of us."

Truman's Speech and Hearing Clinic has been helping residents from Kirksville and the surrounding area since 1960. In November 2011, it was moved into new facilities located in the Truman Health Sciences Building. The clinic serves individuals with disorders of speech, language, voice, fluency, hearing and swallowing, all at no cost to the people served. No-cost clinics are rare due to the necessary heavy reliance on donations. The Speech and Hearing Clinic provides services thanks to the support of the University and from community organizations.

"The outstanding results of the 'Give $50 for the 50th' fundraising campaign component of the Speech and Hearing Clinic, it was also a high priority of the fundraising campaign. The centerpiece of the "Give $50 for the 50th" campaign was the establishment of Columbia, Mo., an affiliate of the Scottish Rite, a national Masonic organization. They provided a $10,000 gift to kick-off the campaign in November 2011, as well as an additional $10,000 gift the next year.

By the time faculty, staff, students and friends of the Speech and Hearing Clinic gathered to celebrate the conclusion of the campaign in February, expectations had already been exceeded. With more than $95,000 already raised, one final donation from Speech and Hearing Clinic director Melissa Passe was enough to reach an even $100,000, double the original campaign goal.

"As an alumna of the CMDS program and the director of the Speech and Hearing Clinic for the past 21 years, I know first hand how important the clinic's work is to both our campus and the Kirksville community," Passe said. "I value each and every client and student, and can think of no better way to express my appreciation and personal, as well as professional, happiness for all that the clinic and Truman itself has provided me over these many years. It is indeed my great honor to push our total to $100,000."

demonstrate the community's willingness to invest in the Truman Speech and Hearing Clinic and its efforts to provide ongoing state-of-the-art speech-language-hearing and literacy services. These results are also evidence of a deeply imbedded passion that our donors possess for improving our community," explains Janet Gooch, dean of the School of Health Science and Education.

In addition to the support the Speech and Hearing Clinic provides the community, it also offers hands-on learning for Truman students. Students observe therapy, then become clinical assistants and eventually assume the responsibilities of student clinicians. Because student learning is a key of the Dr. Cornelis Koutstaal Endowed Study Abroad Scholarship, which will provide communication disorders students with scholarship support for the transformational experience of study abroad.

The award was established and fully endowed through a gift from Marilyn Koutstaal to honor the legacy of her husband, the late Dr. Cornelis Koutstaal who served as professor of communication disorders and head of the Human Potential and Performance Division from 1990-2001. He was honored with emeritus status upon his retirement.

Other major donations during the campaign came from the Scottish Rite Valley

SIERRA CLUB OFFERS INTERNSHIP

"The Best Internship on Earth" is a summer program blending job experience in media production with adventure and activism. The Sierra Club will select two young adults (college students or recent graduates) for the internship. One position is for someone skilled in video production, one position is for someone with an interest in being on-camera talent.

The 2013 itinerary will in part be shaped by the interns' interests. When not on the road, the interns will work with Sierra Club's communications team in San Francisco, Calif., to review, cut and edit video clips, chronicle their journey in a blog and promote an appreciation of nature through outdoor education and adventure. The ideal candidate is passionate about the environment and being outside, open to new experiences, a skilled storyteller, experienced with video software and production and highly engaged with their online community.

To submit an application for the "Best Internship on Earth," visit sierraclub.org/bestinternship.

Professor to Speak on the Treatment of Jews in Paris During World War II

The Truman Department of History will host Dr. Shannon Fogg, associate professor of history at Missouri University of Science and Technology, who will deliver the 2013 Barbara Early-Vreeland Lecture at 7 p.m. March 26 in the Student Union Building Alumni Room.

At Missouri S&T, Fogg teaches courses in the areas of modern France, the French Revolution and Europe during the Second World War. Her lecture is entitled "Stealing Home: The Looting of Jewish Apartments in Paris During the Second World War."

Fogg earned her Bachelor of Arts in history, summa cum laude, from Texas A&M University, and her master's and Ph.D. degrees in history from the University of Iowa. After being a visiting assistant professor at Iowa, she joined the faculty at Missouri S&T in 2004. The Missouri Conference on History gave its "Best Book Award" to her work entitled "The Politics of Everyday Life in Vichy France: Foreigners, Undesirables, and Strangers." Her current book project relates to this Early-Vreeland Lecture. It will be entitled "Stealing Home: Looting, Restitution, Reconstruction, and Jewish Lives in France 1942-1947."

The Barbara Early-Vreeland Lecture, established by Joseph Vreeland in memory of his wife who graduated from Truman in 1973, gives the University community the opportunity to hear public lectures by scholars of international reputation.

Athletics Receives National Recognition

Truman State University has been honored with the Division II Presidents' Award for Academic Excellence amongst student-athletes for achieving a four-year Academic Success Rate of 92 percent.

Truman graduated 92 percent of all of its student-athletes from the 2002-05 cohort within six years of original enrollment and was the only MIAA program to achieve a rate of 90 percent or greater.

The program's future conference (effective 2013-14) – the Great Lakes Valley Conference – placed four programs amongst the 26 total schools recognized, including Maryville, William Jewell, Rockhurst and Bellarmine, and was second only to the Northeast-10 in conference recognition.

The Division II Academic Requirements Committee created the Div. II Presidents' Award for Academic Excellence to recognize programs achieving long-term academic success. The honor is intended to call attention to those programs and is not intended as a ranking.

The Academic Success Rate (ASR) is a measure that reflects the unique qualities of Division II. It measures graduation rates for virtually all Division II student-athletes, including transfers and those not receiving athletically-related financial aid. The national four-year ASR average is 72 percent.

NOTABLES

Adam Davis, professor of English, was interviewed on campus March 19 by Scripps-Howard News Service and CNN for a documentary on arson. Davis has written on the psychology and sociology behind the transformation of traditional Halloween pranking into the destructive "Devil's Night" of Detroit and other Rust Belt cities. Davis discussed inversion festivals from ancient times through the present, during which behaviors which are normally forbidden may be tolerated or even expected, and the powerful are reminded of the limits on their power.

Betty L. McLane-Iles, professor of French, will be serving a second three-year term as the representative of the City of Kirksville's Planning and Zoning Commission to the Kirksville Historical Preservation Commission, following the proposal and approval by Mayor Richard Detweiler and the Kirksville City Council.

SCHOLARSHIP OPPORTUNITIES

The Missouri Insurance Education Foundation will award scholarships to deserving students attending Missouri colleges or universities in a program that could lead to positions in the insurance industry in Missouri. The C. Lawrence Leggett Scholarship in the amount of $2,500 is to be awarded to a junior or senior Missouri resident majoring in insurance or a related area of study in a Missouri college or university. In addition to the Leggett Scholarship, the foundation has made an additional scholarship available in the amount of $2,000. Application forms are available at mief.org. Applications are due by March 31.

The Scholarship Foundation of St. Louis is a non-profit organization that provides access to higher education to St. Louis area students through interest free loans. The program assists students with financial need. Applicants must McLane-Iles will also be representing the Kirksville Historical Preservation Commission as a member of the Friends of the Forest-Llewellyn Cemetery Committee.

Mark Woodcock, a graduate MA in music student, is the recipient of the 2013 Robert Fountain Memorial Honorarium from the Macro Analysis Creative Research Organization (MACRO). The award is given to promising music students who are entering the field of music performance or conducting, and is given in memory of Dr. Robert Fountain, who was an internationally recognized choral conductor and music educator at the University of Wisconsin for many years. The award has a $1,000 stipend associated with it. MACRO is a nonprofit organization for all musicians. The primary goal of MACRO is to promote musical understanding through a practical synthesis of analysis, pedagogy, performance, composition and informed listening.

GUIDELINES FOR USING THE UNIVERSITY LOGO

During the school year, many Truman offices and student organizations will want to create Truman State University related memorabilia with the name of the University or one of the University logos. The University does have a Logo and Style guide that contains standards for consistency for the Truman identity system and if anyone is interested in using the name of the University or its logos, those specific guidelines must be followed at all times. Because the name and logo are licensed, it is best to work directly with the Publications Office on how the name or logo might be used. Information on the main variations of the logo can be found online at publications.truman.edu/logoUsageGuide.asp. For questions concerning use of the Truman name or logos, contact the Publications Office at 660.785.4692.

Truman Today is a weekly publication of Truman State University for students, faculty and staff. Deadline for entries is 5 p.m. the Wednesday preceding Monday's publication. Entries should be submitted by sending an email to truedit@truman.edu or by completing a Truman Today form available in the Public Relations Office, McClain Hall 202. The form may also be accessed online at trumantoday.truman.edu/submission-form.pdf. All submissions are subject to editing for clarity and style. ## FAFSA APPLICATIONS

Remember to file the 2013-2014 Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA) located at fafsa.gov to determine Title IV federal aid eligibility (Pell Grant, SEOG, Perkins Loan, Work Study, Stafford Direct Loans, PLUS Loans). FAFSA results are also needed for some other federal, state, University and private programs. The state's FAFSA filing deadline for the Access Missouri Grant Program is April 1. Do not delay due to late tax filing – the FAFSA allows the use of estimated information – just update the FAFSA record after the 2012 income tax figures are finalized. Later FAFSA filing may result in more limited funding options. Contact the Financial Aid Office (McClain Hall 103, 660.785.4130) for additional information.
